Chinese Add Ultimatum To Indorsement of Truce

The GOP Of Louisiana

Down in Baton Rouge, La., a newly formed Republican group celebrated its birth with a verbal kick in the teeth for the "hidebound conservatives" in their party, saying that if the GOP is to survive we must "rid ourselves of the old conservative element." There was the usual stereotyped slap at the Democrats, but the new group was strictly in a brave new groove with its public estimate of the party leadership.

For years Southern Republicanism has been at a low and usually corrupt level. Alfred Landon, at a time when he was titular head of the Republican Party, said in a nationally distributed interview that with few exceptions the Southern Republican delegations to the national conventions were filled with second-rate persons and were too often of a character which would not be tolerated in delegations from states in other regions.

Republicans of stature in the South have more than once broken their hearts and hopes for a two-party system against the greed of the national hierarchy which somehow wanted to keep the Southern delegations in "pocket."

Hanna

The Southern GOP votes have belonged, with painfully few exceptions, to the heirs of Mark Hanna, who first came to the South to buy up the delegations in his campaign to elect William McKinley. In the Winter of 1895-96 Hanna took a house at Thomasville, Ga., because, he said, his health was bad and he had heard of the mild, health-restoring climate. To that house came the state political patronage bosses for the GOP. When Hanna left he had the Solid South in the bag. Since the days of William Taft the Southern Republican votes have been in the Taft pocket and most of them are now there for Sen. Robert Taft for whom a "draft" is being organized.

But, no Republican of the National Committee can say the party has ever been willing to spend the money and time to build an organization in the Southern states. There are a number of able Southerners who have bitter memories of promises made and really first-rate efforts sabotaged by the GOP heirarchy, which preferred to keep the Southern states a sort of GOP political slum. The Louisiana rebuke is typical of how most of the literate, thoughtful Republicans in the South feel about the party's top direction.

Virus

It is curious in a way, because the virus of a GOP party has flowed always in the veins of Southern politics. It flows there yet, and there isn't the slightest doubt but that a few years of intelligent organization would begin to pay dividends.

The old Whig Party was really Republican in philosophy. It was conservative and furiously anti-Jackson. It was the party of large Southern planters and they looked upon the Democrats as shabby radicals. Its fatal weakness as a party was that same sickness which afflicted the recent Dixiecrats—the Whig Party was one of expediency and not program. Its Northern wing was nationalist, antislavery, protariff, while the Southern wing was strongly antitariff, belligerently states-rightish and proslavery. The events leading to the Civil War drove Southern Whigs into the Democratic Party, but most of them held their noses—and said so.

In the years after the war, the Democratic Party which emerged was certainly not one of Jackson or Jefferson. Most of the "Redeemers" or "New Departure Democrats" were old Whigs. Many were Southern governors. Others were in Congress. In the skillful campaign to obtain the necessary votes to steal the election from Samuel Tilden and give it to Rutherford Hayes in 1877, it was the Whigs who handled the Southern compromise. After a survey in Congress, one of Hayes' managers, A. H. Markland, wrote him: "There are 26 Southern members who before secession were Whigs and who are now secretly pledged . . . and who are at least desirous that you may be inaugurated."

The "Redeemers" spoke for much the same economic interests as the Republicans in the post-reconstruction days. Though for a time supporters of Hayes, they abandoned him to form a voting alignment with the Eastern wing of the Democratic Party which was devoted to the same economic order as the Republicans—an alliance which has continued to our time. It explains why some Southern Democrats so often "act and vote like Republicans."

There has been no second party in the South simply because, as the Louisiana Republicans say, the GOP hasn't allowed one to develop.

Pinch Felt By Iranian Oil Plant

Part Closing Result Of Shipping Tieup

By EDGAR CLARK

TEHRAN, Iran, June 25—(UP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company closed down the overflowing bitumen plant of its big Abadan refinery Monday as the Iranian government began tightening nationalization screws on the British-controlled industry.

A company spokesman said the "filled up" bitumen plant was shut down because of the Iranian government's refusal to permit tankers to leave the port of Abadan without acknowledging, in signed papers, that Iran has nationalized the oil company.

"Due to the hold-up, our bitumen storage capacity has been filled up and we were forced to close down the plant," the spokesman said. Closure of the plant will not affect other refinery operations, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, oil flowing from the Anglo-Iranian fields was being diverted into storage tanks.

Responsible British sources said Eric Drake, manager of the world's greatest oil refinery at Abadan, had been accused of sabotage. Drake also was served an ultimatum demanding whether he would work for the company when it is completely in Iranian hands.

Dispatches from Abadan said Drake was given 72 hours in which to accept the job under the Iranians or quit. The deadline was set at 8 a. m. June 28. A letter delivered to Drake said that, after that hour, "the board will consider you as resigned and will appoint your successor."

Another Anglo-Iranian executive, Derrick Hobson, manager of the company's plant at Kermanshah, was relieved of his post. The Iranian directors accused him of being unco-operative.

In London, Basil R. Jackson, deputy chairman of the AIOC who was in Iran last week, said Iranian pressure would force the British to withdraw from Iran within a week or 10 days.

British sources said Drake had received a letter signed by all three directors of the Iranian National Oil Company accusing him of sabotage. They said the specific charge was that Drake prevented the export of oil by refusing to sign documents.

Sir Frances Shepherd, the British ambassador here, expressed concern over the letter to Drake. He said it probably would serve to drive out the British staff of the Abadan refinery, already unhappy over the prospect of working under Iranian pressure.

Betty Breaks Engagement To Amburn

Cancer-stricken Betty Thompson, of East Point, announced Monday she had broken her engagement to sailor Tom Amburn because his mother's health apparently was "more important" than Betty's.

"I'm not mad at him," she insisted, "but I think it best to end our engagement under the circumstances. . . . I love Tom, just like I love everybody."

Tom left Betty's side after a one-day visit here several weeks ago to fly to Sioux Falls, S. D., where his mother reportedly had "collapsed" after learning of his engagement. His emergency leave then was revoked by the Navy, and he returned to Norfolk, Va.

Betty said Tom apparently was "upset" over the publicity they received, but she said she didn't mind it because it had helped people learn the dangers of cancer. She added, many people had written her they were "inspired" by her case.

Amburn, reached by telephone at the Norfolk Naval Air Station said: "I never had a chance to explain my position. This is her decision, and I guess she's branded me. I don't want to say anymore."

Tom's mother flatly refused to discuss the matter with newsmen and her husband was nearly as reticent. He wouldn't say whether the family was relieved by Betty's action but said he was afraid it would "start another batch of publicity."

Byrd Urges South Force Plank on States Rights

Democratic Rally Hears Attack On Truman Party, Praise of GOP

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Senator Harry Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, urged Southern Democrats, in a Georgia party rally here Monday night, to force the National Democratic Party to repeal the so-called Civil Rights plank and re-enact the States Rights plank in its platform.

"How can we enforce our demands?" asked Byrd in a fighting speech before Georgia's own brand of Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner. "We can enforce them, if we let the national leaders know they must have the votes of the South to elect a President."

Asked by newsmen after the speech if this was an implied threat of leaving the party, Byrd replied: "Nothing is implied. I am just telling the truth: that they cannot elect a President without the South's support."

More than 1,000 Georgia Democrats, led by Gov. Talmadge and Georgia party and administration leaders, cheered as the Virginia Conservative senator fired broadsides at the Truman administration and National Democratic Party leadership in sharp contrast to speeches made at the party "love feasts" in previous years.

Not once did Byrd hit the Republican Party as had speakers of former years. At one point he did indorse the Republican Congress (80th Congress) for being the only one in recent years to seek a balanced budget.

He recalled that four Southern states gave concrete evidence of their disavowal of the "Truman Party" through their action at the polls in 1948. Four Southern states bolted the Democratic Party and voted Dixiecratic last election.

The South should demand restoration of the two-thirds rule in the 1952 convention, the Senator declared. Under the two-thirds Summer on a violent tear let loose a bag of weather tricks in Atlanta Monday that resulted in death to one person and widespread damage.

The display ran the gamut from extreme heat (92 at 4 p. m.) —through hail, damaging lightning, isolated torrential downpours and tree-toppling winds—to cool and gentle breezes.

Forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday: Partly cloudy and continued hot . . . with widely scattered thundershowers both afternoons or evenings.

In Atlanta high readings of 93 are due both days after indicated morning lows of 70.

WOMAN FATALLY HURT

Eva Mae Butler, Negro, of 130 Davis St., N. W., was fatally injured when the auto she was driving was in collision with a Southeastern Greyhound bus on Northside Dr., N. W., during the height of the storm, Fulton County police said. K. B. Smith, of Marietta, passenger on the bus, had several teeth broken by the impact.

John Leo Livingston, of Smyrna, driver of the bus, told Ptl. J. C. Reece and Jack Scott he applied brakes to stop in a line of traffice at 1500 Northside Dr. and the heavy machine skidded to the left side of the street.

After the collision, patrolmen said, the bus skidded completely around twice and came to a stop in a driveway 100 feet from the point of impact. Smith was the only one of four passengers aboard the bus who was injured.

Half a dozen perturbed motorists sat with cars stalled in several feet of water at the intersection of Glenn and Pulliam Sts., S. W., at a time the Weather Bureau at the Municipal Airport had recorded no rain.

The heaviest rains were concentrated in areas close to town but winds and formidable lightning were widespread.

POWER CUT OFF

Power company officials reported their Tucker and Stewart Avenue substations were out of operation because of wind.

The fire department switchboard was jammed with calls but none proved serious. An electricity meter was burned out at 916 Hill St., S. E., and other slight damage was reported at 811 Greenwood Ave., N. E., and 835 Elbert St., Southwest.

Firemen were also called out to

Old Claims Hinted Again By Peiping

HONG KONG, June 25—The Chinese Communist "indorsement" of the proposals of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik for ending the Korean fighting, made in an editorial in the official Pieping government news organ, the People's Daily, was received here by radio Monday.

The editorial, which presented a review of the first year of the Korean war, constituted the first top-level Chinese Communist reaction so far expressed to the Soviet cease-fire proposition.

Significantly, the Peiping statement described the Malik offer as "proposals for peaceful settlement of the Korean question." But there appeared to be conditions by the Chinese Communists: All foreign troops should be withdrawn from Korea and the Korean people should be allowed to settle the question themselves.

TIRADE AGAINST U. S.

The Peiping broadcast alluded to but did not again define other earlier Chinese Communist demands for possession of Formosa and for a seat in the United Nations Security Council as prerequisites to a Korean peace deal.

The long editorial in The People's Daily, titled "One Year of the Korean War," was largely a tirade against the United States. The Chinese Communists were presented as always having been prepared to make peace in Korea and the United States was described as aggravating and continuing the war.

The Malik proposals were termed "another test for America to see whether she accepts the lessons of the past and whether she is willing to settle the Korean question peacefully."

RECITES CLAIMS

Many Chinese Communist moves and statements from as far back as August, 1950, were cited to emphasize the asserted Peiping desire to end the Korean fighting. The editorial declared that all Peiping efforts "firmly upheld that all foreign troops should be withdrawn from Korea and the Korean people should be allowed to settle the Korean question themselves."

It charged that the United States "repeatedly refused" to accept Chinese Communist offers and in-

Malik Too Ill To Talk Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 25—(U.P.)—United Nations General Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam flew from Washington late Monday only to find that Russia's Jacob A. Malik was too ill to discuss the new Communist cease-fire proposal with him.

The Iranian diplomat found a message waiting at his New York office from Malik's secretary informing him that the Soviet delegation chief was "indisposed" at his guarded retreat at Glen Cove, Long Island.

The note said Malik would call Entezam Tuesday to arrange a meeting.

Earlier, informed sources said Malik had applied for reservations to sail July 6 on the Swedish liner Gripsholm. He intends to return to Moscow for his annual vacation.

U. S. Wants 'Real Peace' —Truman

Critics of Acheson Hit by President

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., June 25. President Truman proclaimed anew Monday the continuing willingness of the United States to join in a "real settlement" of the war in Korea which would fully end aggression and restore peace and security for the gallant Korean people and their neighbors.

On the first anniversary of the Communist invasion of South Korea, Mr. Truman stood under a blazing sun before an applauding crowd of 10,000 persons to dedicate the still-to-be-built 41,000-acre, $257,500,000 Air Research Center named for the late Gen. Henry H. (Hap) Arnold. The Presidential answer to the surprise week-end peace overture of Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, was as devoid of details as was Malik's original offer.

But Mr. Truman's assertion that the end of the first year of war finds the aggressors in Korea pushed back "behind the line they started from" made it evident that a truce at the 38 Parallel, suggested by Malik, was possible if guarantees could be obtained that the withdrawal of United Nations forces would not be followed by new Red aggression.

For his administration, he charted a course which would avoid either "rash actions" which included unnecessary risks of World War III, or "weak actions" which would amount to rewarding aggression.

The response to the Soviet peace bid in Korea was coupled with a

PRESIDENT INVADES TENNESSEE

Receptions for Truman, M'Arthur Called Even

By BILL BORING

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., June 25—President Truman's political fence-mending trip to Tennessee just about drew even with Gen. MacArthur's reception about two months ago in Murfreesboro, 45 miles away, observers of both said Monday night.

The President surprised some of the Tennessee political experts by having crime busting Sen. Estes Kefauver in his party when he arrived to dedicate the $257,000,000 Arnold Engineering Development Center here.

Some political experts had said the President's trip was as much to head off any rising Kefauver-for-President stir as to counteract any political gains made by Gen. MacArthur's visit to his wife's home town.

But anyway you looked at it, the Tennessee politicians were in evidence.

Tennessee Gov. Gordon Browning greeted Mr. Truman, whose party also included Air Force Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Mrs. H. H. (Hap) Arnold, widow of the famous World War II General for whom the giant engineering development center is named.

Gov. Browning and about everybody in his administration were on hand when the Independence circled Tullahoma's William Northern airfield and came to a perfect three-point landing.

There was a great tussle for the 135 seats at the presidential luncheon table set up in what looked like a whopping big warehouse and when the dust had settled Tennessee politics wound up with the thing about as loaded as an Atlanta shoppers' bus. Only piece of Arnold Engineering Development Center "brass" able to elbow his way up was Maj. Gen. F. O. Carroll.

It was a strange setting for a political address—about as crude as one would imagine existed back when Andrew (Old Hickory) Jackson was stirring up votes and Indians in this mid-section of Tennessee.

The potentially vast air engineering development has just be-

CIO Renews Control Drive, Bolt Threat

WASHINGTON, June 25—(U.P.). The Administration, backed by a CIO threat to bolt the mobilization program, Monday opened an uphill drive to eliminate a provision of the new Senate controls bill which would ban future price rollbacks.

Sen. Douglas, Democrat, Illinois, asked the Senate to reject the anti-rollback feature shortly after Sen. Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, opened debate on the measure with a sharp attack on President Truman's past control policies.

Simultaneously, the House rules committee gave a go-ahead for the House to begin consideration Wednesday of its own bill to extend wage-price-rent curbs for one year. The Senate bill, which is also weaker in other respects, would extend curbs only eight months.

Douglas and his supporters centered their fire on a section of the Senate bill which would forbid future price rollbacks and which stabilization officials contend would cost consumers "billions" in planned price reductions.

But Maybank said sharply that he has no intention of letting the Senate pass any law which would permit such rollbacks. He wondered if Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle "thinks members of the Senate are of the caliber of brains to grant him such power."

There were these economic developments:

Reds Mount Attacks as Halt Talked

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, June 26—(AP)—Chinese Reds fought fiercly for every inch of Korean ground Tuesday and even gouged out some gains while the Peiping radio guardedly endorsed a Russian proposal for a cease-fire.

Gen. Ridgway was not available at his Tokyo headquarters for any comment on the cease-fire talk. The supreme Allied commander might be called upon for any field negotiations leading up to a cease-fire agreement.

The United Nations' field commander, Lt. Gen. Van Fleet, informed of the Peiping broadcast, merely repeated what he said Sunday—"Business as usual."

Red forces smashed against Allied lines early Tuesday northeast of Kumhwa in central Korea. One Communist platoon penetrated UN positions at 1:50 a. m., but were pushed back 10 minutes later.

All across 100 miles of front, Allied patrols hit stiff Red resistance and, in most cases, were forced to withdraw after brief fights.

MacArthur Inquiry TestimonyConcluded

Conflicting Reports Expected; Russell Praised for Fairness

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, June 25—The Senate's inquiry into the dismissal of General of the Army MacArthur from Far East command ended Monday with testimony supporting much of his case as of last year but rejecting much of it as of now.

It had been conducted by the combined Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee, sitting in closed sessions under the chairmanship of Sen. Richard B. Russell (Dem., Ga.) since May 3. All Asian policies since 1944 have been involved.

Gen. O'Donnell

It closed at 1:47 p. m., two days short of a duration of eight weeks, with an estimated 2,045,000 words in the record. A good many procedural loose ends were left to be gathered up and there will be a meeting for that purpose within two or three days.

WASHINGTON, June 25—(AP). Sen. Cain, Republican, Washington, paid tribute Monday to the leadership of Sen. Russell, Democrat, Georgia, in the Senate's MacArthur hearings.

"In all my life," he said of Russell in a Senate speech, "I have never known an individual to be more fair, patient and tactful. He has been completely impartial."

From the panel of investigation, which numbered 26 senators, three or more reports ultimately may be expected.

In all likelihood, one, to be made by administration Democrats, will back President Truman all the way—not only in the MacArthur episode but in his 1949 decision to cut altogether loose from the Chinese Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek. In this report there probably will be some mild chiding of the President for the abruptness of the MacArthur recall.

WILL BLAST TRUMAN

Report No. 2, which may be expected from the orthodox Republicans, very probably will condemn Mr. Truman all the way, and especially on the accusation that he let the Chiang regime down and thus indirectly helped the China Communists.

Report No. 3, which may be expected from the Eastern Republicans, possibly in association with some Southern Democrats, will, by the present prospect, fall somewhere between Nos. 1 and 2. Not excluded, likewise, is the possibility of separate and amplifying statements from individual members of the panel.

The thirteenth and final witness, Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, Jr., a former commander of the air bomber arm operating in Korea, testified that restrictions on bombing the China Communist mainland deprived the United States and the United Nations of an opportunity to win in Korea last year.

FAVORED EARLY BOMBING

Gen. O'Donnell made it plain that last November, at the time the Chinese Communists in heavy force joined the North Korean invaders of South Korea, he had been all in favor of sending aircraft against Manchuria, as Gen. MacArthur had wanted to do.

Nevertheless, in thus agreeing as of that time with the foremost of the rejected recommendations of Gen. MacArthur, he declared that to do that sort of thing now would be of doubtful wisdom and might so chew up the Air Force as to endanger its "Sunday punch" against the possible greater antagonist, the Soviet Union.

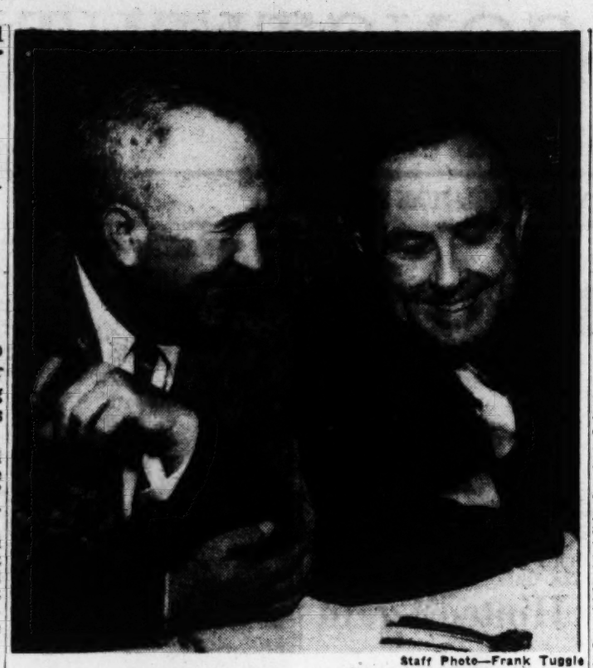

In November, Gen. O'Donnell asserted, it would have been most unlikely that the Russians would have used bombing actions against the Chinese Communists as a reason for going to war with the United States.

They would not have "dared," in his view, because they would have feared that the U. S. response would have been to attack their own cities.

Now, the airman added, the position was different, for last year American aircraft had been operating almost without opposition in Korea whereas now they were under rising Communist attack and thus under rising attrition.

The Air Force, he said, and particularly the heavy bomber part of it, was like "seed corn" that must be preserved against greater dangers than Korea.

Gen. O'Donnell, who commanded the Far East Bomber Command from July 8, 1950, and to Jan. 10, 1951, all the time retaining command of the 15th Air Force in western United States, still maintains the latter command.

BYRD

rule, enacted in 1831 and repealed in 1936, approval of two-thirds of the delegates was necessary for nomination.

The Senator called upon the South to recapture the leadership of the Democratic Party and check its move down the path toward socialism. Lauding the founders of the Democratic Party, he contrasted their ideals with the actions of the "Truman Democratic Party" of today.

Senator Byrd said American free enterprise is the only force in the world Russia fears, but that the Truman administration is moving toward a "national insolvency" that could destroy it.

HITS AT WASTE

"I say to you that Santa Claus must be put in a deep freeze for the duration of the emergency," the "watchdog" of the federal treasury shouted. He denounced President Truman for "padding a wasteful budget with non-essential items."

Although he favors an "impregnable" national defense, Byrd pointed out the President recommended domestic-civilian expenditures of $9,800,000,000 for fiscal 1952 compared with $3,600,000,000 in 1946. Byrd said the new figure could be cut $8,000,000,000 without sacrifice to a vital function.

The Senator lashed the Truman administration as wasteful, irresponsible, hypocritical, and dictatorial. He also said there has been a moral deterioration in government.

Should President Truman be renominated and re-elected, he already has warned that he will again ask Congress to pass the so-called civil rights legislation, Byrd stated. The Senator said this unconstitutional legislation admittedly was aimed at the South. He asked what the South had done to justify this treatment from the National Democratic Party. Without the South there would be no National Democratic Party, the Senator observed.

So much legalized fraud and graft was found in the RFC that a Congressional committee now is talking about devising a "code of political ethics," Byrd reported.

FAIR DEAL RAPPED

"If the time has come in America when we must pass a law and appoint a commission to establish a code of ethics to tell public servants they should be honest; to tell public servants they should be loyal to their government; to tell public servants they should not barter public trust for greedy personal profit; if the time has come when Congress has to set up a commission to rewrite the Ten Commandments with special application to political opportunists, then the basic virtues of our form of government has been crucified on the Fair Deal cross," Byrd commented.

The Senator said one way America reached this condition was on a "creeping toboggan of centralized power."

"Through give-away program on top of give-away program by which the government takes money away from people, and gives them back less than it took, and in the process makes them think they are getting something for nothing, we have gradually centralized power in a gigantic, sprawling bureaucracy, which is just too big to audit, "Senator Byrd continued.

Denouncing the "fiscal irresponsibility of the Truman Democratic Party," Senator Byrd said that the number of new federal employes now being added to the public payroll is little less than a national scandal. The new employment has been averaging nearly 1,500 additional employes a day for a year, and the payroll cost has been increasing at an average of more than half million dollars a day, Byrd said.

"I emphasize that we have a public debt of more than one-fourth trillion dollars," the Senator asserted. "We are faced with colossal expenditures for a long period, yet, confronted with these conditions, the President continues to recommend the waste and squandering of the people's money, which, if continued, can end only in insolvency."

Byrd drew applause when he lauded the present (Talmadge) leadership in Georgia as contrasted with the one which supported Henry Wallace for Vice-President in 1944 (Arnall). He praised Georgia's Congressional delegation, particularly Senators Russell and George.

State Democratic Chairman James Peters assailed the Republican Party as the champion of "vested interests," and praised the Democratic Party as "the party of the masses." He warned Georgians against accepting Communists and Socialists disguised as Liberals.

Mrs. Sullivan Plans Study Of Alcoholism

Mrs. Vlad Sullivan, executive secretary of the Citizens Crime Prevention Commission here, will attend a month-long Institute on Alcoholism at Yale University under a full scholarship granted by the State Health Department's Mental Hygiene Division.

Dr. Guy V. Rice, division director, said the scholarship was awarded "with the understanding that Mrs. Sullivan will be available for consultations and conferences with interested persons following her return."

Dr. Rice pointed out alcoholism had been found to be "at the roots of majority of cases brought against both men and women in Recorders Court here."

Mrs. Sullivan will attend 62 lectures and a 15-hour seminar at the Yale Laboratory of Applied Psychology, said to be "major clearing house" of studies and research in the field of alcoholism in the United States.

Young Expectant Mother Garroted Near Tulsa Home

Police said preliminary examination indicated Mrs. Dorothy Waldrop, 22, had been slain, then raped.

The death occurred in the same general area in which five other women have been slain since 1942. Each of the other women was killed in her bed.

Police Commissioner Brick Fowler said, however, that until more conclusive evidence was discovered the police are not trying to link the five deaths.

"The murderer of Monday's victim could possibly be the same man who killed the five other women," he said, "but we don't think so."

Three small boys going berry-picking found Mrs. Waldrop's fully clad body lying in high grass. Detectives said the young woman apparently had been lured or forced from her home, made to walk or was carried a few hundred yards to the hill, and there slain after a struggle.

Her husband, Robert Waldrop, taxicab company employee, told police he last saw his wife alive at 8:15 p. m. Sunday when he left for work. He said he returned home at 1 a. m., found the front door open and his wife gone. After waiting awhile, he said he called friends trying to locate her.

Retired Diplomat Rescued From 13th Floor Leap

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 25—(U.P.)—Gilchrist Baker Stockton, retired career diplomat and world-known figure, tried to jump from a 13th-floor window Monday but was pulled to safety in a life and death struggle one story below.

Charles N. Notter, manager of an insurance company on the 12th floor, and Elmer Franke, one of his underwriters, hauled in Stockton after he had slipped from the grasp of his wife at the 13th-story ledge.

"When he reached the 12th floor ledge, he teetered back and forth," Notter said. "We each grabbed one of his legs. Then he let go of the window and fell backward. Some others ran up and grabbed his arm and we pulled him in."

Stockton, 60-year-old descendant of Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, held many important posts abroad during his career.

He was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford from 1914 to 1917 and began his government service abroad at the same time as a member of the U. S. Relief Commission in Belgium.

He was chief of the Austrian Mission, American Relief Administration, under Herbert Hoover in 1919-20, Naval aide and liaison officer to the U. S. High Commissioner to the Philippines in 1945-46. He held decorations from many governments and the City of Vienna. He reached the rank of lieutenant commander in the Navy.

Monday morning, Stockton came with his wife to his real estate office on the 13th floor of the Barnett National Bank Building. He greeted a typist and he and his wife went into his private office.

The stenographer heard Mrs. Stockton cry "Gilchrist, don't!" She opened the door and saw Mrs. Stockton holding on to his arm as her husband stood on the ledge. By this time workers on the floor below noticed the commotion. They grabbed Stockton just as he fell. Hundreds of spectators on the street watched the drama.

Several persons held Stockton until police arrived. Pale and trembling, Stockton would make no statement.

He was taken by two policemen to a hospital for observation. Friends said Stockton had been in a nervous condition recently.

Baltimore To End Recreation Segregation

BALTIMORE, June 25—(AP)—The park board voted Monday to end segregation at Baltimore's four municipal golf courses July 10 and to allow interracial tennis matches on certain courts.

The board also said it would allow mixed play on City athletic fields upon application and if such policy at the city's seven public pools and at Fort Smallwood Beach.

"What would you buy for a beautiful baby girl..."

...if you only had $50 to $100 to invest?"

That's the question Mrs. C. L. Lang of Marshall, Texas, asked us.

"Our income will probably never be large, and since Susan is only the first of several we hope to have, we are pretty sure that we will not be able to invest more than $100 a year. It is very likely that we will be unable to provide for all of our children the things that we would like for them to have, so we plan to teach them how to acquire for themselves the things that they want in life."

And that's why the Langs wanted to start their children off with an investment in American business.

Because they felt that money invested in common stock would be more likely to keep its purchasing power over twenty years than money which was simply set aside.

Because, as Mrs. Lang said, "owning common stock will serve as an educational project for our baby (or babies, if we are fortunate). I am told that the stockholder owning only a few shares of stock gets the same reports and dividend checks . . . periodic letters from the president telling how the business is going . . . as are received by the stockholder owning a large block of stock. We feel that owning stock will give our children a practical lesson in the economics of the democratic free enterprise system."

We wish we could reprint her whole letter here. For that matter, we'd also like to reprint the detailed reply our Research Department sent Mrs. Lang, because it was typical of the painstaking care that Research gives to the questions of thousands of people who write us every month asking for an objective opinion about what they should do with either their present investments or their money—a little or a lot. If you'd like to see that correspondence—what we recommended buying "for a beautiful baby girl"—we'd be glad to send it to you.

Or for that matter, if you've got an investment problem of your own, just write us about it. We'll be glad to tell you what we think is the best answer for you, whether you're a customer or not. There's no charge for that service, no obligation. Just address—

Margaret Waves Goodbye to Paris

PARIS, June 25—(AP)—Margaret Truman waved goodbye to Paris from a window of the Rome Express Monday and called to the platform crowd: "Thanks a million!"

"She has chic," smiled an elderly Frenchwoman who waved back.

Before the train was due to leave, the President's daughter was asked what she liked most during her week's stay in Paris. She smiled and said:

"Why, just everything." Then she added sternly: "But no interview, please," and turned away.

4 Georgians Are Killed In Korea

Four new Georgia fatalities in Korea—three of them Atlantans—were reported Monday and 32 Georgians were listed as wounded, four missing in action and one injured.

Georgians killed in action were identified as Pfc. Robert H. Sparks, Pfc. Donald W. Webb and Lt. C. J. James, all of Atlanta, and Pvt. William R. Whitlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Whitlock, Rt. 4, Madison.

Pfc. Sparks, 20, was a native of Jackson but had lived here most of his life. He joined the Army in March, 1950, and had been in Korea—where he was attached to the 365th Infantry Division — since April of this year. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sparks, 23-B Crawford Pl., have been informed he died on May 19. Also surviving is a sister, Mildred Sparks.

LIFELONG RESIDENT

Pfc. Webb, 19-year-old lifelong resident of Atlanta, attended Joe Brown High School and enlisted in the Army in 1948. Previously reported missing in action, his parents were notified he was killed in action Sept. 10. A member of the First Cavalry Division, he had been in Korea since July, 1950. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Webb, 1711 Browning St., S. W.; a brother, R. F. Webb, Jr., USN, and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Webb McDaniel and Miss Millie Sue Webb.

Lt. James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. James, had been in Korea about seven weeks. A civilian insurance adjuster, he was born in Atlanta, graduated from the University School for Boys and attended Emory University and the University of Georgia.

He served on the Carrier Princeton with the Navy Air Corps during World War II. After the war he studied physics at North Georgia College where he received his commission in the Army Reserve.

In addition to his parents who live at 5 Exeter Rd., Avondale, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Robert W. Mote; grandfather, Manning L. Abernathy, and several aunts and uncles.

MISSING

Georgians listed as missing by the Defense Department were Pvt. John W. Adams, Rt. 2, Carrollton; Pfc. Robert A. Cater, Rt. 1, Riverdale; Pvt. Crawford H. Love, Rt. 1, Eason; and Pfc. Albert D. Mills, Watkinsville.

Cpl. Walter J. Williford, Rt. 1, Adel, was reported injured and the following Georgia Army men wounded: First Lt. Richard L. Anderson, Columbus; Pfc. Bobby Lee Barnes, Rt. 6, Rome; Sgt. Joseph J. Bennett, Rt. 4, Valdosta; Pfc. Jimmy C. Braswell, Rt. 1, Edison; Second Lt. Luther P. Call, III, The Rock; Pvt. Hugh S. Chambers, Rt. 4, Cartersville; Pfc. Roy R. Creek, Athens; M/Sgt. Richard B. Gilland, Columbus; Pfc. George J. Goodson, Macon; Pfc. James E. Graham, Crossland; Cpl. Donald L. Ice, 1217 Lorenzo Dr., Atlanta; Pfc. Charles J. Jackson, Albany; Pvt. Henry A. Jones, 544 Humphries St., Atlanta; Pvt. Thurman E. Mathis, Rt. 4, Lyons; Cpl. Owen T. Norris, Augusta; Pvt. Cecil S. Poss, 326 Fairburn Rd., S. W., Atlanta; Sgt. Herman R. Scroggins, Rt. 1, Hampton; Pvt. Dilly T. Studdard, Rt. 2, Monroe; Pvt. Peter L. Tear, Columbus; Pfc. Charlie Westbrook, Columbus, and Cpl. John H. Whitley, LaGrange.

Way Clear For Hospital At Augusta

Final approval for construction of the new State General Hospital at Augusta was received Monday from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said the State also had received priorities for material for the $12,000,000 project.

A bill giving the Hospital Authority power to issue $12,000,000 in revenue certificates to finance the 768-bed hospital was passed at the last session of the General Assembly.

Surplus in Treasury

Georgia will end the fiscal year at midnight Saturday with a $15,000,000 to $17,000,000 surplus in the State Treasury, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher estimated Monday.

But he warned Georgians not to think about lowering taxes because on July 1 the State will embark on the most ambitious spending program in its history—some $207,505,703 a year.

Thrasher said the expected surplus would be about enough to operate for a month under the new program.

Savannah Toll Bridge

The State will contribute $1,800,000 in the next three years toward construction of a $13,000,000 toll bridge at Savannah over the Savannah River. The span will connect Georgia and South Carolina.

Revenue certificates to be retired with tolls will make up the remainder of the funds, Gov. Talmadge announced. Talmadge said $600,000 would be made available annually, beginning July 1.

U. S. Seeks Tax Millions From Gambling Syndicate

MIAMI, Fla., June 25—(UP)—Liens totaling $4,866,854 have been slapped against eight members and associates of Miami Beach's fabulous S&G gambling syndicate by the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue, it was disclosed Monday.

The liens—which ranged from $272,499.14 to $1,002,972.30—were all filed against men who have been undeer investigation by the Senate Crime Committee. The committee said the S. & G. conducted an annual $26,000,000 bookmaking business in this winter resort.

The highest single lien, for $1,002,972.30, was filed against Harold Salvey, but Jules Levitt was handed the largest over-all bite through one lien against him and one filed jointly against him and his wife. Together, they added up to $1,098,510.28.

The lien against Salvey stemmed from back taxes which the government said he owes from 1945-48. Levitt's property was tied up for taxes owed from the same period.

Others against whom the liens were filed:

Samuel Cohen, two liens totaling $655,824.64; Samuel Friedman, $455,175.24; Charles Friedman, $458,101.57; Ben Cohen, $339,463.30; Edward G. Rosenbaum and his brother, George, two liens totaling $856,807.77.

J. Joel Brown of the intelligence unit of Miami's Internal Revenue Office said the liens were forwarded from the State office at Jacksonville.

Plaza Urges U. S. Guide Americas

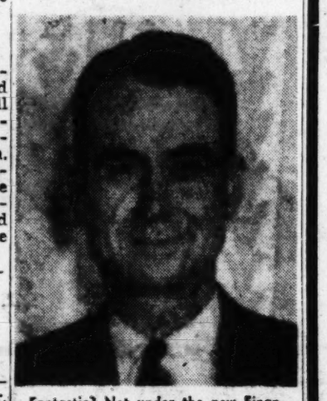

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—President Galo Plaza, of Ecuador, Monday night called for U. S. economic aid and technical know-how to help the less-developed countries of the Western Hemisphere make the best use of their resources and geographical position.

Accepting the medal of the Pan American Society of the United States at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, the Ecuadorian president declared, that "mere agreements" of Pan American unity were "no enough."

"The challenging responsibility of aiding the less-developed countries of the Americas rests with the more-developed countries of this hemisphere," he said.

Finest Quality Corneal Contact Lenses At The Lowest Price In America

Our Corneal Contact Lenses are positively the finest obtainable anywhere at any price. They are the result of years of scientific research and experiment. They are precision ground and polished and subjected to the most rigid inspection by European and American highly skilled technicians—experts in contact lenses. When you get our corneal contact lenses you are obtaining the very highest quality made at a price everyone can afford. Why pay more? Prescription necessary!

BUDGET PAYMENTS

WHY OUR PRICE IS SO LOW!

YET QUALITY FINEST OBTAINABLE

Although our Corneal Contact Lenses are "tops" in quality, the price is sensible and one you can afford. We manufacture them in our own laboratories, where hundreds of skilled technicians are employed. If we wanted to manufacture contact lenses to sell for $200.00, we couldn't use better materials or finer workmanship than those used in the contact lenses we sell for only $75! When you deal with us, you are getting the best, and at the same time saving a considerable sum of money. Budget payments, if desired.

SAFE and COMFORTABLE

Thousands of happy people all over the U. S. are wearing them with safety and comfort. There is no feeling in the eyes from them, as they "float" on the natural tears of the eye.

IF YOU CAN WEAR GLASSES YOU CAN WEAR CONTACT LENSES WHY WEAR THICK GLASSES?

Anyone who needs or wears glasses can not only see as well, but much better, with Corneal Contact Lenses. No matter how thick your glasses are, Contact Lenses are all tissue thin, regardless of the prescription.

INVISIBLE
CANNOT BE DETECTED

Contact Lenses are transparent: they fit only over the Cornea (colored part of the eye) and are absolutely invisible. Your family, your friends, will not know you are wearing them.

CANNOT INJURE THE EYES

On the contrary, being made of unbreakable material, they PROTECT the eyes from any injury in case of accident.

CAN BE WORN INDEFINITELY

After a short "breaking-in" period they may be worn every working moment. No fluid or solution is used. Just slip them in and forget them.

ENJOY SPORTS

Once again you can enjoy all the things you used to do. Work and play with safety, and without the feeling of inferiority that glasses give you.

NO IMPRESSIONS OR MOLDS of EYE REQUIRED

No impression or molds of the eye are needed with these new Corneal Contact Lenses. They are fitted with delicate instruments that do not touch the eye.

NO SOLUTION NEEDED

No fluid or solution is used; that is why they can be worn indefinitely.

TINY, FEATHERWEIGHT

SIMPLE TO WEAR EASY TO REMOVE

It will take you just a few moments to learn how to wear them and how to remove them. It's simplicity itself.

WILL NOT STEAM UP

Unlike glasses, contact lenses will not steam up in cold weather, nor does rain, sleet or snow affect them.

ELIMINATES ASTIGMATISM

GUARANTEED UNBREAKABLE LAST INDEFINITELY

GIVE BETTER VISION THAN GLASSES

Not only do they give you wider and better vision, but they are more comfortable. Glasses can never give you the vision that Contact Lenses will.

MORE ECONOMICAL THAN GLASSES

They do not require periodical changing every few years like glasses do; and besides they cannot break. They are therefore much more economical than glasses.

PROTECT EYES AGAINST INJURY SAFER THAN GLASSES

Eyeglasses are made of glass. Contact lenses being unbreakable protect your eyes from accidental injury.

CHECK these IMPORTANT features:

- Invisible, undetectable.
- No solution needed.
- No impressions required.
- Safe and comfortable.
- Cannot injure the eyes.
- Can be worn indefinitely.
- Tiny, featherweight, tissue thin.
- Simple to wear, easy to remove.
- Protect the eyes; unbreakable.
- Better than glasses; give better vision and more economical.
- Improve your looks.
- Finest quality made.

THOUSANDS SATISFIED

Thousands of men and women everywhere, young and old alike, have changed to Contact Lenses. They are wearing them with safety, comfort and happiness, because they are rid of old fashioned glasses that spoil their looks. There is no reason why you cannot do the same. Improved looks, comfort and happiness await you! It costs nothing to investigate and find out for yourself.

THESE FOLKS WORE GLASSES . . . NOW THEY ARE HAPPY WITH THEIR CONTACT LENSES

WEARS THEM 16 HOURS A DAY

Roy Akins writes: "I wear my Corneal Contact Lenses for 16 hours in perfect comfort. I don't even know I have them on. I often go to sleep with them on. My lenses are so invisible that my friends don't even know I am wearing them. They think I have just quit wearing glasses.".

Husband Doesn't Know She Wears Contact Lenses

Mrs. Alfreda Tanka writes: "They are so invisible even my husband and close friends are unaware of their presence. They are remarkable for watching movies and television. I wear them as long as 18 hours a day without being aware of their presence. The least I wear them is 14 hours a day. I most heartily recommend them to every person wearing glasses."

GOOD-BYE TO THICK GLASSES

Ralph Crose, Jr. writes: "I was given a pair of glasses with very thick lenses and wore them for 15 years up until the time I got my contact lenses. I have never enjoyed better vision. I can now drive an automobile with complete assurance of the safety of my own life and those of others. I can read much better and faster than ever before. When at the theater I can sit as far back as I want to, whereas before I had to sit no farther back than the first 5 or 10 rows. I now wear my contact lenses from 12 to 15 hours a day with no feeling of discomfort whatever. It seems like a miracle to me that I don't have to wear heavy glasses any more."

ATLANTA WOMAN SAYS "WONDERFUL"

Mrs. Mary Chesnut, 2920 Roxboro Rd., N. E.

Atlanta, Ga.: "I must tell you something amusing—my husband objected to my getting the contacts, so I have not told him and he still does not realize I am wearing them, but is very "thrilled" that I am able to see now without my glasses, and continually tells me how much younger I look.

"I only wish that I could personally talk to others who hate glasses as I do and could tell them how wonderful it is to wear contacts."

Claw-Trimming Job Fatal to Bear On Eve of Madison Square Booking

OMAHA, June 25—(AP)—Jake, the rodeo bear, is dead.

"He was just learning to roller skate and he was doing so well," mourned Jake's owner, Buck Robinson of Dill City, Okla., Monday.

Robinson, a rodeo clown and bullfighter, captured Jake in Canada four years ago, and made him into an accomplished performing bear.

Sunday in Omaha Robinson decided to trim Jake's claws. Robinson tied the 435 pound animal upright to a tree for the delicate trimming job. At the touch of the clippers, Jake lunged forward and became entangled in the ropes. Before Robinson could untie him, the animal was dead.

"And he never even knew that he was invited to Madison Square Garden this year," Robinson mused.

5 Lawyers Given Surrender Delay

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan Monday postponed until July 23 the surrender of five lawyers convicted of contempt in the Communist conspiracy trial.

The postponement applied also to Eugene Dennis, one of the Communist leaders who was convicted of contempt while acting as his own attorney.

Dennis and lawyers Richard F. Gladstein and Harry Sacher drew sentences of six months each. Lawyers Abraham Isserman and George W. Crockett were sentenced to four months each, and Louise McCabe to 30 days.

Dennis also is under a five-year prison sentence as one of the 11 Communist leaders convicted on charges of advocating overthrow of the government by force and violence.

Georgia Lions Win Prize in N. Y.

The parade which lasted three hours, consisted of 36 floats and 55 musical groups. First place in the Lions float class went to a committee from Kennett Square, Pennsylvania.

Botanists have identified about 300,000 different species of plants.

What Will Your Marriage Be Like?

The 18th—16th years will be most critical. You'll have three children (birthdays depend on where you live!); quarrel most over money, jealousy, children; buy a home at 35 or 40; sleep in a double bed. July Reader's Digest tells what your marriage will hold—if you're statistically average.

Here are interesting facts about marriage, too: Know what the chances are a divorcee will remarry? What occupations mean a man's a preferred marriage risk? Read a Gallup Poll editor's answers.

TRUMAN

new declaration of war by the President against his domestic critics, principally Gen. MacArthur and the top leadership of the Republican Party in Congress. He was interrupted by applause 15 times as he spoke.

SMEAR CAMPAIGN

He interpolated into his speech an assertion that Secretary of State Dean Acheson "has done more for his country than all his slanderers put together." There was applause from the crowd as the President defended by name the work of Generals Bradley, Marshall, and Secretary Acheson. Acheson, he said, had the job of bringing entire nations to aid in the fight on a common enemy and had been successful in that objective.

Without mentioning any of his foes by name, the President, in a half dozen paragraphs, cited the principal arguments these opponents have advanced against his policies or the men he has chosen to administer them and accused his foes of a "smear campaign" that is "playing right into the hands of the Russians."

Asserting, in effect, that Gen. MacArthur and his Republican supporters would risk provoking World War III by a series of actions that might lose the United States its allies, Mr. Truman declared:

"They want us to play Russian roulette with the foreign policy of the United States—and with all the chambers of the pistol loaded."

(In Russian roulette, a revolver containing some bullets and with some chambers empty is held to the head by a contestant who pulls the trigger. His gamble is that the hammer of the pistol will strike on an empty chamber. In that case he is alive. If he is wrong, he is dead.)

He struck hard at the contention of Republicans that failure of his administration to supply enough aid to China had been responsible for the defeat of Chiang Kai-Shek's government and the victory of the Communists on the mainland of China.

CHINA ARMS AID

"We put billions of dollars' worth of arms and supplies into China to aid the Chinese Nationalist Government," he said. "We gave them more help than we gave Greece or Italy or Berlin. The Government of Greece took our aid and fought for freedom. But many of the generals of Nationalist China took our aid and surrendered.

"We can investigate the situation in China from now until doomsday, but the fact will always remain the same: China was taken over by the Communists because of the failure of the Nationalist Government to mobilize the strength of China to maintain its freedom."

On four separate occasions, Mr. Truman picked up the answer of Gen. MacArthur that he would, if necessary, have the United States "go it alone" in expanding the war in Asia by bombing Manchuria and blockading the Chinese Coast if the Allies refused to accept the strategy he proposed. The President said the Soviet Union's "great objective is to strip the United States of its Allies—to force it to 'go it alone'" in which case the Communists could "go ahead with their plan of taking over the world, nation by nation."

He struck back sharply at critics of Generals Marshall and Bradley, and at those Republicans who would oust Secretary of State Acheson, who he described as "one of the greatest secretaries of state in history."

BLAST AT SENATORS

In a section plainly aimed at Republican Senators Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, Mr. Truman said:

"But some of the people who are trying to get us to 'go it alone' aren't engaging in honest political debate. They know they couldn't win that way. So they have launched a campaign to destroy the trust and confidence of the people in their Government.

"They are trying to set the people against the Government by spreading fear and slander and lies. They have attacked the integrity of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They have maliciously attacked Gen. Bradley, who is one of the greatest soldiers the U. S. ever produced. They have tried to besmirch the loyalty of Gen. Marshall, who directed our strategy in winning the greatest war in history. They deliberately have tried to destroy Dean Acheson—one of the greatest Secretaries of State in history."

And the President prodded the Congress to get on with its part of supporting the war and defense effort by passing legislation he deemed essential.

While Truman expressed satisfaction the MacArthur investigation had been fair and thorough, he declared the important problem now is the future and not the past, and we cannot expect the world to "stand still while we examine the whole course of foreign policy since 1941."

He called for effective laws to curb inflation and increase defense production, for approval of appropriations to build up defense forces, and for legislation to continue a policy of military and economic aid to the Allies.

BORING

gun and the only phase of it under way—the engine testing facility—is no more than a big hole with concrete pilings stuck in it. The President spoke from a pineboard platform and his listeners sweated in 90-degree weather and tried to wrench some comfort out of rough board seats hastily erected.

There were seats for 20,000 but the best estimate of the crowd at the speaking was between 8,500 and 10,000. About 10,000 more lined the 10-mile route from Northern Field.

The Democratic committeemen had been husking the hinterlands for a week, trying to drum up a crowd that would outshade that of Gen. MacArthur in Murfreesboro two months ago. It would have appeared that that wouldn't have been difficult to do, since the general's audience wasn't anything to make a Ringling envious. But as things turned out, those who attended both speakings seemed to think Truman and MacArthur broke about even.

BUNTING AND FLAGS

Anyway, it was big day for Tullahoma and the town had the bunting and flags waving—some of them Confederate—and Tullahoma's mayor, Jack Farrar, lyrically described the President's visit as "a shining jewel in the crown of the Queen City of the highland rim."

The tourist court operators and other merchants who had planned to "get well" financially on both the MacArthur and Truman visits to these parts were mumbling their disappointment, but everybody seemed to have had a good time here Monday, including the President.

He looked healthy and hearty as he stepped from the Independence in a light blue worsted suit, a panama hat, a sharp-looking black and white tie. He smiled, waved, and began the round of political back-slapping, looking like a Georgia sheriff seeking re-election.

REVIEWS DETACHMENT

He returned a lazy salute to the commanding officer of the Air Force flight and as he reviewed the small detachment he stopped at about every other man, asking where he was from, etc.

After a bit of milling around, the presidential party motored off for the Arnold Center, the President riding with Gov. Browning and Maj. Gen. Carroll in a black Lincoln convertible shipped down from the White House garage for the occasion. Fifteen of the shiniest and newest convertibles this section could produce followed with the rest of the official party.

Music both at the airfield and at the center was furnished by the 60-piece Third Army band from Atlanta, assisted by an instrumental group from Tennessee's Sewart air base.

The President's entire Tennessee visit spanned only five hours. He left Washington after breakfast and some work at Blair House and was back in the Capital in time for an afternoon siesta if he so desired.

A spectacular feature of the day's observance was an aerial salute to the memory of the late Gen. Arnold in which B-47 stratojet bombers (the kind Lockheed will make in Georgia), F-84 Thunderjets, F-86 Sabrejets and B-29's took part. Just prior to this display, President Truman unveiled a plaque memorializing the name of Gen. Arnold as his widow, attractive and looking mighty proud, looked on.

The President's luncheon was Southern fried chicken, string beans, hot biscuits and gravy.

It was as hot as blazes here and about everybody who heard the address went home wringing wet from perspiration, but at that, the Washingtonians said it wasn't any hotter than it was in the Capital City when they left.

A sidelight on the luncheon was that Southern Negroes, dressed plantation fashion with bandannas and polka dot dresses, did the serving. There was a smattering of Negroes in the audience and lot of them lined the parade route.

National Guardsmen To Donate Blood

Members of the National Guard's 201st Ordnance Co. will donate blood through the Red Cross when the Mobile Unit of the Atlanta Blood Center visits the Confederate Armory from 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday. The Unit also will visit Southern Spring Bed Co. and the Southern Railroad this week.

Adel Melons Moving Now; 45 Cars Roll

ADEL, June 25—Watermelon movement reached 45 carloads Monday when farmers throughout Cook County delayed tobacco curing long enough to take advantage of higher prices.

Five cars shipped Saturday had a price range of $775 to $850.

An enthusiastic atmosphere prevails throughout this area as growers and buyers chide each other about the small acreage of early fruit for shipment this week, says F. W. Mitchell, Adel veteran watermelon buyer.

Methodist Conference Opens Here Today

Some 800 Methodist ministers and laymen from all over North Georgia converged on Atlanta with three primary aims:

Preaching, praying and "politicking."

Eighty-fourth annual North Georgia Methodist Conference will open at 10 a. m. Tuesday at Wesley Memorial Methodist Church with a full agenda, including election of delegates to 1952 General and Jurisdictional Conferences.

Politics enters the picture there.

ALERT TO VIEWS

Leaders of Methodism are alert to views of delegates who vote at the "big" conferences on matter of policies affecting the entire church, and name of the minister who "leads all the rest" of the delegates frequently is mentioned for a bishop's appointment.

Preaching and praying will run like a golden thread throughout the program of North Georgia Methodists, now in the middle of their "year of Jubilee."

Delegates to the five-day meeting are expected to introduce resolutions ranging from an appeal against the "discipline" requiring non-use of tobacco by ministers to a limiting of bishops' terms. Meeting in a vast auditorium draped with the flags of the United Nations, they are expected to speak out on world issues. So that no voice may be lost, the conference observes "Men's Day," "Women's Day," and a special day for youth.

List of conference speakers includes Vice President Alben Barkley and Bishop J. Lloyd Wicke, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as well as leaders of Methodism from all over North Georgia.

MOORE TO SPEAK

An address by Bishop Arthur J. Moore and a new type of oral roll call in which all delegates "stand up to be counted" will open sessions Tuesday.

Bishop Wicke will speak to a new class of ministers being taken into full conference connection following their two-year probationary period. Retired ministers will be honored with a luncheon at the Henry Grady Hotel. Ten district superintendents will report on work of the year.

Delegates will end a day-long business session with "an evening of great music" by the Protestant Fellowship Choir.

Party in His Honor Rough on War Hero

HARLAN, Ky., June 25—(AP) A Medal of Honor winner was injured when a fight broke out at a party given in his honor, state police reported Monday.

First Lt. Carl H. Dodd, 26, who was presented the nation's highest military award by President Truman May 19, reportedly suffered a broken rib.

About 50 persons were involved in the melee Saturday night, according to the Post's sergeant at arms, William Petrey.

State police reported Clarence Robinson, 31, a coal miner, was arrested on a charge of assault and battery that night. Police said Archie Lewis Hall, 31, Kenvir, was arrested Monday and charged with drunkenness and breach of peace.

GI Training Deadline July 25, VA Reminds

Deadline for starting GI bill training for most World War II veterans is only a month away—July 25, the VA announced Monday.

April 26, 1951

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

"Hair ads" never caught a second glance from me—strictly for the bald fellows, thought I. Besides, I supposed I was too young to have hair troubles.

However, last summer my friends called my attention to a thinning spot on the crown of my head. I wasn't too concerned because I thought it was a temporary condition and would stop spreading. My hair grew lifeless and dull and started falling out. Bare patches appeared all over my head.

I had never neglected my hair, so I was alarmed. I was told my trouble was alopecia areata, and that with scrupulous care and massage my head "in time" would return to its normal condition. But I found "good" care doesn't give the results that "excellent" care does; and time was precious as my hair was still thinning out.

Then I consulted Mueller Hair Experts, although I was very skeptical. Their professional reassurance was a boost to my morale. Their treatments far surpassed the "good" care I had been giving my hair at home. In a short time I amazed everyone by growing new fuzz on the bare spots. What hair I had left was saved, and grew glossy and thick.

Now, after a series of Mueller treatments I have a healthy head of hair which not only looks good, but feels good as well.

I am deeply grateful to Mr. Mueller and the staff for having been so patient and thorough.

"A treatment in time saved mine!"

Byrnes Offers Segregated Equalization

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 25. (U.P.)—Gov. James F. Byrnes pledged Monday that South Carolina will "do everything possible" to see that its Negro citizens get equal educational opportunities under the framework of segregation.

Byrnes said the state would aid the people of Clarendon County to comply with a federal court order which upheld the legality of public school segregation but ordered Negro schools equalized.

Records in the state department of education, meanwhile, showed that Negro school facilities in the county are far below white's even though there are three times as many Negro students in Clarendon.

Byrnes, commenting for the first time on Saturday's decision of the three-judge tribunal, termed the majority decision "unanswerable." He said it was a "well reasoned" justification of the "separate but equal doctrine."

Judges John J. Parker and George Bell Timmerman, Sr., upheld the constitutionality of segregation while at the same time ordering equalization of school facilities. But Judge J. Waties Waring, liberal-minded for Charleston, fired a scathing dissent blasting the principle of segregation.

Byrnes did not refer to the Waring dissent in his statement issued at a press conference.

Long Distance Lines Kept Busy Here

Long distance telephone lines out of Atlanta Monday were tied up for more than seven hours as individuals and businessmen here made plans for the "long" 4th of July holiday and discussed the Korean peace talks.

W. K. Mosley, district manager of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, said Monday was a most unusual day as far as volume of calls was concerned. He said lines were kept busy from 10:30 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Patience Will Reward You!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

Let us say, just for the sake of emphasizing a truth, that we are talking about you.

All your life, since you were old enough to see and dream and understand, you have known that Cadillac represents unquestioned supremacy in the motor car world.

And you have said that—"when the time arrived"—you would own a Cadillac.

Now, "the time has arrived." You have reached the point in your endeavors where you feel you are entitled to a Cadillac—and all the things it represents.

But you hear that some delay in delivery has become unavoidable.

"Maybe," you think, "there is a substitute. Perhaps some other car, which I can get more quickly, would do."

For the sake of your own welfare—please listen to this:

There is only one car which is recognized wherever highways lead as the "Standard of the World."

There is only one car which is held in the highest respect by newsboys and millionaires alike.

There is only one car which is the hope and the ideal of motorists everywhere.

And there is only one car which you, yourself, really and truly want.

So stand firm in your convictions—and be patient! For patience will bring you the richest reward in the motor car world. It will bring you—a Cadillac!

France Accepting German Divisional Army Plan

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, June 25—In order to make possible an agreement on formation of a European Army, France will give in to the West German demand that the basic national units composing such a force be divisions rather than combat teams, an authoritative source disclosed Monday night.

The source said the interim report of the six-power conference on the European Army, to be issued July 15, would include the French concession. The conference which grew out of former Premier Rene Blevin's proposals for a European Army, has been meeting here for three months.

Noting that the West German government appeared to have become more favorable to the whole idea of rearmament, the source expressed the opinion that agreement on integration of German units into a European Army would now be possible.

Hitherto, the major stumbling block has been the French insistence that the army be composed of national combat teams of 6,000 men each. The German experts maintained that this was not practical. They held, for instance, that such small units could not include adequate numbers of service troops and held out for divisions of 12,000 men.

Now, according to the source, the French representatives are willing to compromise on national divisions of 10,000 men.

An agreement here would probably be followed by a meeting of the foreign ministers and defense minisetrs of the Atlantic Pac Nations, the source said. If the agreement should still hold at that level, it would have to be ratified by the parliaments of the participating countries.

As the French envisage it, there would be no conflict between the European Army and Gen. Eisenhower's command. The European Army would merely become another element in his command.

The French purpose in proposing its formation and, in particular, in seeking to keep the national units composing it as small as possible, was to permit international control of the German armed strength and prevent the German forces from menacing Europe again.

Telegrapher Strike Set For Monday

Fifteen hundred local telegraphers are scheduled to walk away from their Western Union jobs at 6 a. m. next Monday in a nationwide strike of the AFL Telegraphers' Union.

The walkout has been authorized by a 10-to-one membership vote because of the company's refusal to reopen existing contracts to negotiate pay increases, the union explained.

The union is demanding a wage boost of at least 25 cents an hour for all employees with the exception of about 4,000 represented by the American Communications Association in New York City.

About 35,000 employees would be affected across the country.

"There are no special local grievances. This is a national strike," Roy H. Northcutt, secretary-treasurer of the Southern Division of Commercial Telegraphers, commented.

Local Western Union officials stated that the dispute is still under negotiations with the Federal Mediation Board in Washington.

CONTROLS

Board, said that unless Congress tightens up the pending bills he will urge the united labor policy committee to walk out of the mobilization drive again.

2. DiSalle appealed to representatives of 13 organizations to help stir up public interest in controls. He told his new consumer advisory committee "There has been considerable apathy on the part of the public to some of the controls problems."

3. In its first action on the controls bill, the Senate by voice vote agreed to an amendment by Oklahoma Sens. Monroney and Kerr, both Democrats, to limit to six percent the maximum down payment on GI houses whenever the number of housing units started totals less than 850,000 a year.

4. The Senate agriculture committee informally agreed to oppose any effort to write President Truman's request for a one-year "freeze" on farm parity into the controls bill.

Maybank, whose Senate banking committee drafted the measure, said the President "apparently" delayed imposition of controls last fall in hopes "prices would rise so that increased taxes could be collected from larger incomes."

Despite the pressure for speedy action, many congressmen doubted it will be possible to write a law before the present act expires Saturday midnight. They believed a temporary extension of the present law will be necessary.

evacuate Mary Lou Brooks, a cripple, from the flooded basement of a house at 496 Central Ave., S. W., and to check a flow of water into Chajage's Fur Shop at 220 Peachtree St., N. E.

Ptl. G. T. Hodges and J. W. Banks said water backing up from a clogged sewer reached a depth of three to four feet and flooded basements of homes fronting on Pulliam St. and Central Ave., S. W.

Police and firemen evacuated the families of Richard Brown, Robert Rich and Mary Logan, all Negroes. They said the homes of Mrs. Rosa Lee Thorpe, R-483 Pulliam St., S. W., and Mrs. Della Reynolds at 483 Pulliam were heavily damaged by water.

Lights were out in many sections of the city as electric wires snapped. Police said the storm which occurred during the afternoon rush traffic hour caused serious traffic snarls and kept traffic officers on duty an hour later than usual.

Strong guests of wind blew out glasses from display windows at Three Sisters, 52 Whitehall St., S. E., where a stylishly dressed mannequin was blown out into the street—and at Davison-Paxon.

Many streets were flooded in low lying areas, causing traffic to be jammed.

Combination of a flat roof and a faulty gutter poured two inches of water over the third floor of the Robert Hall Building on Alabama St.

Houses in the 400 block of Westmeath St. in West End were threatened by water from a small stream that had risen late Monday to about three feet. The stream originates in West View Cemetery and, Charles Wellborn of 441 Westmeath said, ordinarily runs "at a trickle."

Two narrowly escaped death when high winds toppled a huge tree across the front of an auto in which they were riding on Pulliam St., S. W., and sent high voltage electric wires into the street.

The tree fell directly across a car occupied by George Wood, 42, of 394 Forrest Ave., N. E., and Ruby Leonard, 50, of 588 Pulliam St., S. W. Ptl. E. F. Jackson and M. C. Faulkner arrived quickly on the scene and ordered Wood and Mrs. Leonard to remain in the auto until Georgia Power Company crews could clear up the electric wires.

The tree also damaged a parked auto owned by W. K. Knight, 403 Pulliam St., S. W., patrolmen said. The top came to rest across the porch of a home at 404 Pulliam St., occupied by W. H. Warren.

A second tree fell across a building at 114 Cain St., N. E. housing a repair shop but caused no injuries.

Mrs. Lenora Elizabeth Carroll, of 375 Penfield Dr., Hapeville, fell during the storm at Ellis and Peachtree Sts., N. E., police said. An employe of an insurance firm, she was treated at Grady Hospital for head injuries. Mrs. Ruby Logan, 43, of Route 2, Austell, sought protection from the rain under an awning and was injured when the awning collapsed, police said.

Attempting to cross Ponce de Leon Ave. at Highland Ave. during the rain, Mrs. Ruby Modean Mann, 30, of 635 Pierce St., S. W., was struck by a truck. Police said she carried in her arms a year-old son, John Frank Mann, Jr. Miroculously the child was not injured. Mrs. Mann was treated for an injury to the right arm.

Lightning struck the roof of a four-unit Negro apartment house at R-131 Glenwood Ave., S. E., and caused a small fire, patrolmen said. The resulting fire damaged the ceilings of apartments occupied by Viola Cross and Lannie Moss.

Lightning Strikes Tree Again After 5 Years

Who said lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place?

According to Robert Green, of 82 Boulevard, S. E., the old saying just "ain't so."

A tree at the side of his residence lost its second limb to lightning Monday when a bolt struck. According to Green, a cement mason, the tree lost a limb under similar circumstances five years ago.

"It used to be a good shade tree," he said.

stead "continued to extend aggressive war, directly threatened China's security and jeopardized China's peaceful construction."

The Peiping organ declared: "The United States government still wants more Americans, Britons and people from many other countries to sacrifice themselves to its imperialistic policy."

"CONQUEST DESIGN"

The United States was charged with having started an unjust aggressive war with a sudden, all-out attack by "puppet troops" of Syngman Rhee, South Korean president. President Truman is asserted to have "openly announced the seizure of China's territory, Taiwan (Formosa), and the strengthening of armed intervention in Vietnam in an attempt to launch aggression against China and menace China from three directions."

The United States intervention, it maintained, was to restore Nationalist control in China and to "go on to enslave the two continents of Europe and Asia in its craving for world conquest."

The United Nations drive to the Yalu River last year was described as United States preparation to go farther and "invade China."

CLAIM U. S. LOSSES

The editorial said that the "Chinese people consequently launched a movement to resist America, to aid Korea and to defend their homes and motherland."

Much of the editorial was devoted to depicting the allegedly heavy blows dealt to the United States by the North Korean and Chinese Communist forces in Korea and arguing that the United States was critically drained by the exhausting demands of the struggle. It stated that more than 200,000 enemy troops had been annihilated on Korean battlefields by Chinese forces in a period of seven and a half months. Half of these were American, it asserted.

The dismissal of Gen. MacArthur and Senate hearings for his dismissal were described as evidence of United States failures and confusion and attempts by United States leaders to shift responsibility.

THREATEN VANQUISHING

On the other hand, the North Korean and Chinese Communist forces were asserted to have created a situation "that will make their victory certain and one which further American aggressions can never change."

The editorial stated: "If America still turns down the proposals for a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, then the armed forces of the Korean and Chinese peoples will certainly be able to complete the vanquishing of the enemy invading Korea, provided they continue with persistence."

There is general agreement here that little has come out of Communist China lately to indicate that Peiping has been contemplating peace in Korea. The Chinese Communists are pushing at a feverish pitch their campaign to raise money to better equip their forces in Korea.

'A Way With My Men'

Billy Southworth stopped off in another part of the South to visit some relatives a couple of years ago. He was bound for Bradenton, Fla., for Spring rendezvous with the Boston Braves who had won the 1948 National League pennant for him.

Or he for them. At that particular moment, it hadn't been conclusively determined just who won for whom, and that was the subject of the hour.

Billy the Kid was feeling his oats that night. It was easy to see he was trying to suppress his personal pride of achievement. But the pride oozed up and forced its way into Southworth's conversation, and I've got a solid memory of him as he sat awkwardly on an ottoman and confided that "I've got a way with my men."

Bisher

You knew he must have, for you'd heard it from the men themselves, especially some of the St. Louis Cardinals with whom he had such a marvelous run from 1940 through 1945. You knew he had something more than ordinary stuff on the ball, or he'd never have won with that unsightly collection of Braves in Boston.

That was the year of "Sain, Spahn and rain, then Sain and Spahn again." That was also the year of Vern Bickford's coming-out. He is top-drawer in the National League now, but in '48 Bickford was a total stranger in whom Southworth has seen much potential. You get the strength of the Braves' pitching staff when you reflect a moment on the names of two old troupers Southworth had to tap as World Series starters, Nelson Potter and Bill Voiselle. That was the year, also, when Southworth relied heavily on a fellow named Clint Conatser as a pinch hitter and outfield trouble shooter, and who the next season faded into minor league obscurity. One of his two catchers was a spavined old warhorse named Bill Salkeld, out of whom Southworth was wringing the last drop of big league blood.

With these, Billy the Kid won. And with them he carried Cleveland's Indians, a group of much redder blood and higher social standing, to six games in the Series. Small wonder the man was feeling his oats and perhaps wondering as he sat there that night if he were not the new Chosen One.

Holmes' Future Came Fast

He got his answer right away and in manner most unnerving. It happened in Spring training, when a Boston columnist reported that dissension was now batting 10th in the Braves' lineup. Some of the asp-tongued players resented inferences that Southworth had turned them from sow's ears into silk purses with his miracle touch, and they were saying so. Southworth, unaccustomed to such public conduct, could not, or did not meet the situation with force. Had he done so, instead of falling back wounded, he would have forded the treacherous waters.

As the season wore on and the Braves wore out, Southworth crawled into his shell. At no time did he appear to have a grip on the Braves, and finally, one startling day it was announced that he was retiring for the season to his acres near Sunbury, Ohio. It was generally assumed that he would never come back to the Braves, but he returned last season. They finished fourth for him, by dint of a Cardinal foldup, but at no time again did it appear that Southworth had the bit drawn tight in the Braves' mouths.

And again this Spring it seemed the same. There was an unhealthy demeanor about the Braves' camp at Bradenton. The elder players responded more as a team of oxen than athletes, and the most bovine of the lot was Walker Cooper. Beside him, Ebba St. Claire would have passed for Roger Bresnahan.

I won't forget for a long time the afternoon when Southworth sat down to talk with Tommy Holmes about his future. Tommy is a nine-year big leaguer, and you perhaps have heard of the fetish they make about attaining 10-year stature. Holmes had been asked to manage the Hartford farm when Rip Collins quit to go into radio. Southworth, John Quinn and Harry Jenkins talked Holmes into taking the job, with the definite assurance that he had a future in the field. Seldom does a fellow's future arrive with such haste. Southworth went and Holmes' ship came in last week. He'll become a 10-year man on a manager's wage, which is a sweet way of having one's cake and eating it, too.

The Oleo Salesman Came Back

Southworth has been riding a roller coaster since he broke in as a manager at Rochester in 1928, himself just over the 10-year line as a big league outfielder. He got a break almost as swiftly as Holmes, was called to manage the Cards in 1929. He flunked out by mid-July, when Sam Breadon sent him down to Rochester and called in Bill McKechnie.

Southworth sank into the mire and out of the business by 1932, victim of his own impetuosity and personal habits. For a while he traveled the South as an oleo margarine salesman, finally worked back into the Cardinal organization in 1935. He took the class B Asheville club and started back up the ladder. He touched at Memphis and Rochester on the return trip and arrived with the Cards again in 1946.

He had done a complete rehabilitation job on himself. This time he made a mighty splash in the big pond. Three years running the Cards won the National League flag. Everything Southworth touched turned to pennants, but he never learned to relax, except with stimulant. The grind wore deeper and relaxation came harder and his beloved son was killed in an Army crackup. This was his dad's crackup, too. Southworth came back once more, in Boston, as noted, but there's a limit on comebacks. He may have used his.

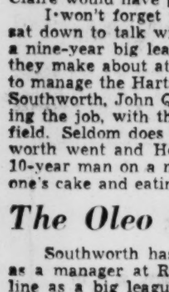

CHANCE TO ADVANCE

New York Readies For Six With Bums

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—The time has come to stop Brooklyn—or else. That is the feeling in the New York Giants' camp and around the rest of the National League.

Even with Sunday's double loss at Pittsburgh, Chuck Dressen's Dodgers approach the All-Star game with a six-game lead. If the Giants can't cut it in their six games with Brooklyn during the next 10 days the Dodgers may be gone forever.

Chuck Dressen

The American League, however, seems assured of a solid race through the Summer. Chicago's lead melted to one game on an 8-8 Eastern swing but now they dig in at home for a long stand. For the next two weeks they'll be playing mostly St. Louis and Detroit.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	Home	Away	Opponents
Chicago	9	7	St. L. 8, Det. 6, Clev. 2
N. Y.	7	7	Bost. 7, Wash. 6, Phila. 1
Boston	8	9	N. Y. 7, Phila. 8, Wash 2

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brkln.	6	8	N. Y. 6, Phila. 6, Bost. 2
N. Y.	8	6	Brkln. 6, Bost. 6, Phila. 2

If the Dodgers continue to belt the Giants around at their early pace, the National race can be practically finished by July 8. Closer to the second place Giants is St. Louis. And the Cardinals are eight games behind Brooklyn. Furthermore, the Cards have been able to beat the Dodgers only twice in 10 starts.

With Preacher Roe (10-0) for the Brooks and Sal Maglie (11-3) for the Giants, the Polo Grounds management expects a sellout at the Polo Grounds Tuesday night. They play again Wednesday and Thursday. After an interlude to take on the Braves and Phils, it will be the Giants and Dodgers again at Brooklyn for the two July 4 and one the next night. Both the Giants and Dodgers swept through the West on their second trip at a 9-4 clip.

By losing three of four at Fenway Park while the Yankees swept three from Cleveland, Chicago's lead shrank to one game. They were 2½ out front after dividing two with New York at Comiskey Park June 10.

The schedule gives the White Sox an edge. While they play their Western rivals, the Yanks

Robinson Denies Foe Was Fouled

KO'd Berliner Clean, Says Ray

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 25—(AP)—Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson flatly denied hitting Gerhardt Hecht, German light-heavyweight, any foul blows in their turbulent non-title bout in Berlin Sunday night and West Berlin newspapers came to the New York Negro's defense.

Robinson, who worked out at a gym here Monday, insisted "I never hit any fowl blow. I knocked Hecht out clean. I should have won the fight.

"I haven't any hard feelings against anybody about this," said Sugar Ray, who had some time to cool off. "Not against the Berlin fans, the German people or even against the officials.

"I'm just sorry that some Germans may have gotten the wrong opinion, that they might think I really tried to win a fight by a foul. I don't have to win my fights that way.

"I am glad they took moving pictures of the fight. They will show there was no foul."

Asked if he would fight again in Germany after his sad experience of Sunday, Robinson declared, "I'll fight anywhere. I feel a champion owes that to the people.

"I'd even fight Hecht again, right in Berlin, with the same officials, just so we get a clear understanding about the rules before the fight."

"I'll swear, I never hit him anywhere near the kidneys. My punches were clean to his body—in front, not in back."

Robinson first was declared the loser on a foul for kidney punching—illegal in Germany—in the second round by Referee Otto Nispel, but the official's verdict was overruled several hours later by the West Berlin Boxing Commission which declared it a "no-decision" affair.

Some of the 25,000 fans in Waldebuehne stadium hurled bottles and other missiles into the ring after Hecht dropped to the canvas in the first round and again in the second round. The German writhed in pain and he and his handlers yelled "foul."

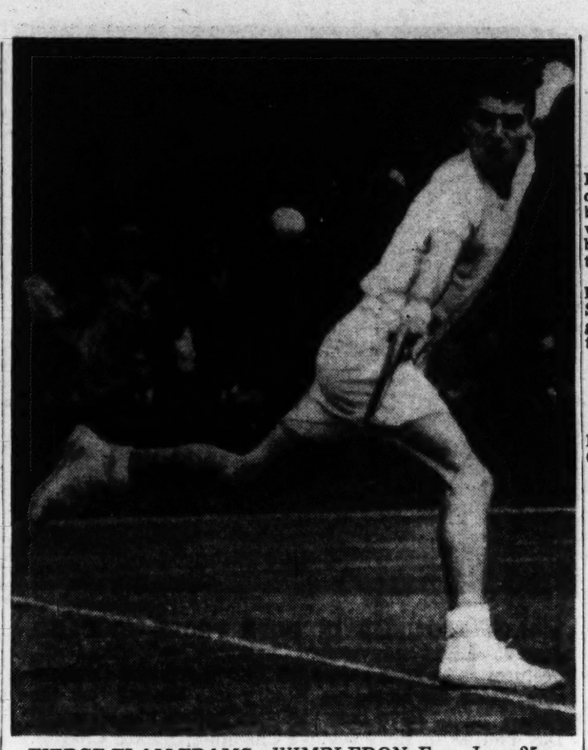

Robinson was forced to duck under the ring to escape the shower of bottles. He then was escorted out of the ring by 20 policemen. Later he was escorted to an American military train and brought here.

The Telegraf declared, spectators had not seen Hecht turn his body into Robinson's punches "on both occasions."

"Only that is the reason for the fouls," it said.

Der Abend declared, Robinson had not been well enough informed about German boxing rules and it blamed the boxing commission.

AL HENENCHECK SOLD

Crackers Conclude Woeful Home Stay

By JESSE OUTLAR

Rain gave the Crackers a reprieve Monday, but Tuesday night they must face Little Rock again in the final game of their most dismal home stand of the season.

Cracker Pres. Earl Mann will enter Emory Hospital Tuesday. Later in the week, he will be operated on for a stomach ailment.

Maybe the off night will help Manager Dixie Walker's sagging forces. In losing a double-header to the Travelers Sunday, the entire club looked as though it needed a long vacation.

Pres. Earl Mann had no announcement to make on much needed new faces. But he disclosed that hard-hit Al Henencheck has been sold to Raleigh of the Class B Carolina League.

Al Henencheck

Henencheck will be no stranger in his old home town. He won 23 for Raleigh in 1947 and pitched a perfect game.

The veteran right-hander had been of little help to the Crackers this season. He made only five starts and was kayoed for the fourth time Sunday by Little Rock.

After winning his first five games in '50, Henencheck suffered a fractured leg, when struck by a line drive off the bat of Nashville's Fred Richards. He never regained his form and finished with a 7-6 chart. He carries a 4-6 record to Raleigh.

Although they have won only 19 of their last 51 games, the the Crackers are still clinging to the first division. But the early season spurt can't hold them up much longer.

Unless help of tested Double A caliber is uncovered, the Crackers will finish in the lower bracket. With the season almost at the half-way mark, they are practically out of the pennant picture, 12 games behind Little Rock.

Howard Anderson (9-5) and Southpaw Eddie March (4-4), who were warming up when the showers resumed Monday, will toss Tuesday's game at Ponce de Leon.

The rained-out tilt will be made up with a double-header Aug. 3.

Stulb, MacLaurin Tie for State Medal

By BERT PRATHER

ROME, Ga., June 25—Defending Champion Eileen Stulb, of Augusta Country Club, and Cecilia Harris MacLaurin, Savannah, fired even 80s over the Coosa Country Club course to tie for medalist honors as the twenty-second annual Amateur championship of the Georgia Women's Golf Association opened here Monday afternoon.

Miss Stulb, the tall Augustan who defeated Mrs. Grady McDonald of Atlanta in last year's championship finals at Atlanta's Druid Hills Golf Club, had a pair of 40s on her 18-hole qualifying tour. Mrs. MacLaurin was out in 39 and back in 41.

Women's par for the course is 36-37—73, but it is doubtful if any of the starters will approach this figure over the excellently-conditioned Coosa layout.

Frances Rich, of Bainbridge, who is representing Glen Arven Country Club of Thomasville, was next low qualifier with 40-42—82.

Martha Daniel, current president of the GWGA and a three-time winner of the tournament, tied for fourth qualifying spot with Mrs. Clarence Elsas of Atlanta's Town and Country Club. They posted 83s.

Mrs. McDonald had trouble solving the Coosa course and wound up with a 42-43—85. Mrs. John Cobb, the Atlanta city champ from Druid Hills, made the championship flight of 16 with the same score.

Mrs. Bill Hall (91), Mrs. Bob Givens, the East Lake champion (89), Mrs. Charles Miller (93), Mrs. Sydney Smith (89), Mrs. Lanier Yarborough (95), and Mary Lou Durkin (86) were other Atlantans to make the championship bracket.

Little Bebe Smith, the Columbus Country Club teen-ager who thrilled the gallery by making the title flight last year, missed out this time with a 95. It took a 93 to make the championship. She had company in her disappointment, however, as Barbara Kilgore, runner-up in the Atlanta championship this year, missed making the title grade by one stroke.

Championship flight gets under way Tuesday morning at 9 a. m.

The tourney will run through Friday.

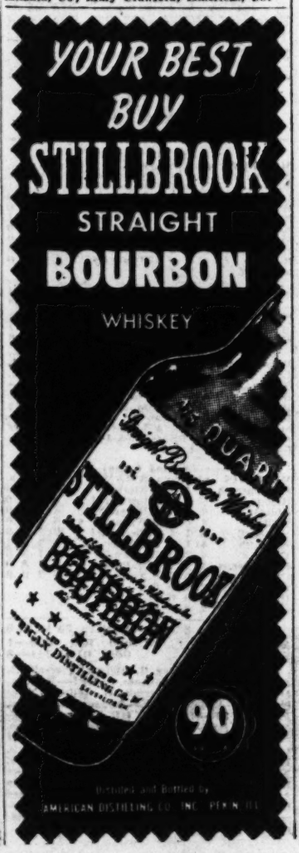

Pairings in the upper bracket, championship flight:

Lower bracket: Mrs. MacLaurin vs. Mrs. Smith, Mary Jane Mann vs. Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Yarborough vs. Martha Daniel, Mary Lou Durkin vs. Mary Crawford.

Other qualifying scores:

Mrs. Hugh Given, Rome, 89; Mrs. C. E. Elsas, Atlanta, 83; Mrs. Bill Hall, Atlanta, 91; Frances Rich, Bainbridge, 82; Mrs. Robert Givens, Atlanta, 89; Mrs. John Cobb, Atlanta, 85; Mrs. Charles Miller, Atlanta, 93; Mrs. Sidney Smith, Atlanta, 89; Mary Jane Mann, 90; Mrs. Grady McDonald, Atlanta, 85; Mrs. Lanier Yarborough, Atlanta, 93; Martha Daniel, Rome, 83; Mary Lou Durkin, Atlanta, 86; Mary Crawford, Americus, 93.

Dropo 'Expected Back'

BOSTON, June 25—(AP)—Walt Dropo, American League Rookie of the Year in 1950, is on his way back to the minors, but the man who sent him down expects him back—again to play first base for the Boston Red Sox.

"There's no reason not to expect him back," said Sox Manager Steve O'Neill shortly after the giant first baseman's 24-hour option to San Diego was announced.

"I didn't expect him to maintain the average (.322) he had last year, but I had hopes he'd hit that long ball for us.

"He didn't and that's why we had to send him back to the Coast."

Last season big Dropo belted across 144 runs, tying teammate Vern Stephens for American League honors in RBI's.

To date Walt is batting an unmuscular .251 and has driven in only 25 runs.

His departure, to get the club down to the 25-man limit, was necessary because of the recall and purchase of three Louisville farmhands. Outfielder Tom Wright and Infielder Fred Hatfield were optioned to Louisville, Sox-owned farm in the Triple-A American Association, Sunday night.

The Sox acquired Outfielder Karl Olson and Charlie Maxwell and Pitcher Leo Kiely from Louisville.

You'll naturally want advice . . . the best you can get.

Where do I get it? One sure place is in an office of a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

How will they help me? By talking over with you what you want to do and how to do it. The benefit of their experience is yours for the asking.

Can I talk in confidence? Yes. Your problem is a personal one . . . it involves your hard-earned cash . . . your broker will respect those facts.

Will he recommend a particular stock? Of course, if you ask for his professional opinion. His recommendation . . . whether a stock with a long dividend record, or stock in an expanding company promising greater returns . . . will depend on what you want to accomplish and the degree of risk you are willing to assume.

How much does all this service cost? Not one cent . . . whether you're thinking of buying 10 shares, 27, 50 or 100 shares.

What will my broker charge me if I do buy a stock? His commission, on the average, runs around one per cent of the purchase price. On very small orders ($100 or less) the commission may be six per cent; on larger orders it may be as small as one-fifth of one per cent.

GREATEST EXHIBITION CROWD

Yanks Beat Bums Before 71,289 Fans

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—The largest exhibition game crowd in history—71,289 paid—saw the American League defending champion New York Yankees defeat the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3, after 10 exciting and confusing innings Monday night.

Three Dodger errors contributed heavily to Yanks scoring, ruining fine pitching by Johnny Schmitz and hard-hitting Roy Campanella. The Dodger catcher homered, doubled and erased three base-runners to win a watch as the most valuable player in the game. Dodger reliever Phil Haugstad hastened his downfall with a two-base error on Billy Martin's sacrifice bunt in the tenth.

With the bases loaded and one out in the tenth, pinch hitter Gene Woodling, whose homer in the last inning the day before beat Cleveland, poled another into the right field seats. Only this one counted as a single, because he passed Hank Bauer on the baseline for an automatic out. Bauer was loafing, after watching Phil Rizzuto score the winning run.

Sandy Hershey New Coach At Rockmart

ROCKMART, June 25—The appointments of Sanford (Sandy) Hershey as head football coach and athletic director at Rockmart High School, with W. T. Bentley as basketball mentor, was announced over the weekend by J. A. Scoggin, Superintendent of Rockmart city schools.

Hershey, a graduate from the University of Florida, replaces J. D. Langley. Langley resigned earlier and will enter Kentucky, working toward his masters degree and serving as a part-time coach.

Upon his graduation from Florida in 1938, Hershey coached at Winter Haven, Fla. After seven years at Winter Haven, he moved to Eustis, Fla., where he had been for the past five seasons.

Hershey is a T-formation man and may shift the Rockmart offensive to this formation.

Bentley comes from Quitman High School where he developed several highly rated basketball teams. He has been coaching basketball for five years.

He replaces Garland Pinholster, who was called to active duty at the completion of the 1950-51 school term. He is also expected to aid Hershey with the 1951 football squad.

Sosebee To Race

Gober Sosebee, the "wild Indian" who had three cars that failed in the Sunday program at Lakewood, will have an entry Saturday night as the night racing season opens at Lakewood Speedway on the new quarter-mile track in front of the grandstand.

Jack Smith of Roswell will be among the front contenders. Smith was second in the 100-lap modified race Sunday at Lakewood.

Amateur races will also be run. The first event starts at 8:30.

Rod Colson Signs To Play For Valley Nine

Rod Colson, Sylvan High baseball coach who has been playing amateur baseball with Dixisteel and the Candler Park Civic Club here this Summer, has signed to play for third-place Valley in the Class D Georgia-Alabama League.

Colson, former University of Georgia outfielder who coached Atlanta Bass to the State high school crown in 1950, played part of the 1949 season in the outfield for Valley but has played no pro ball since.

The 185-pound native of Florida broke into the Valley lineup over the weekend as a catcher, but probably will be used chiefly in the outfield again.—CHARLIE ROBERTS.

and Red Sox meet seven times. Anything like an even break between the second and third place clubs would give Chicago an opportunity to pull away.

Before they come into Yankee Stadium for a day-night doubleheader, Friday, Boston has two games at Fenway with red hot Philadelphia. It will be Maury McDermott (4-4) for the Sox against Bob Hooper (2-5) for the A's Tuesday night.

The Yanks will be in Washington for three, starting with Ed Lopat (10-2) against Connie Marrero (6-4) on Tuesday's all-night program.

BASEBALL BABIES, TOO

Ex-Series Talent Graces White Sox

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK, June 25—(UP)—The Chicago White Sox haven't been in a World Series since 1919, but plenty of their players have.

Unlike the Philadelphia Whiz Kids, a wonder team through most of 1950, some of these White Sockers have been around winners before. They know what pennant pressure means and that a slump hits even the best of 'em.

Among the World Series veterans are first baseman Eddie Robinson (Indians '48), catcher Phil Masi (Braves '48), outfielder Al Zarilla and infielder Floyd Baker (Browns '44), catcher Gus Niarhos (Yankees '49) and pitcher Joe Dobson (Red Sox '46.)

"There's quote a difference between this club and the Braves of 1948," said Masi. "Boston had pitching you could count on almost every day to win more than its share.

"We had Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn and Vern Bickford going in steady rotation and you knew where you stood every day."

The White Sox have been winning with an odd assortment of flingers.

"It's great pitching," Masi said. "We've got a couple of good fastballers and they've all got a lot of stuff. But I couldn't tell you today who'll pitch and win tomorrow. I can't even tell you who'll pitch."

Robinson, having his greatest year in baseball, is impressed with White Sox speed more than anything else when comparing his present outfit with his Indian mates of '48.

But he's just as happy playing on an infield with Chico Carrasquel and Nelson Fox as he was with Cleveland in that big year along side the doubleplay magicians, Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon.

Gumpert was in the Yankee bullpen corps during the 1947 Series with Brooklyn and Pierce was an eligible with the Detroit Tigers in 1945 against the Chicago Cubs.

But there are plenty of real baseball babies on the Chicago club, too, including the league's two top rookies—Orestes Minoso and Jim Busby. Second baseman Nelson Fox is just beginning to learn his trade after three seasons and shortstop Chico Carrasquel is a sophomore.

All in all, it's an excellent combination of youth and experience but there still is a long way to go to prove they're really the wonder team the Phillies were in '50.

The Fightin' Phils did win a pennant.

Hapeville Downs Douglasville, 13-4

DOUGLASVILLE, June 25—Hapeville's American Legion Junior baseball nine won its seventh game in 10 starts, 13-4 over Douglasville Monday afternoon.

Charley Hope pitched six-hit ball for the Hapeville team and collected two hits at the plate. Bobby Peek socked a triple, double, two singles and batted in six runs for the victors. Howard Roberts' two hits was Douglasville's best.

Sam Kocsis Takes NCAA Golf Lead

COLUMBUS, O., June 25—(AP). Samuel Kocsis, a 32-year-old father of three children, carved out a five-under-par 67 Monday to take the qualifying lead in the 1951 national collegiate golf championship.

Kocsis, who hasn't "been able to play much golf the last two years," set a competitive record for Ohio State University's long and hilly Scarlet Course with his 33-34—67.

Qualifying scores for University of Georgia entries were: John Carson, 38-37—75; Wilkins Kirby, 37-39—76; Richard Cofer, 40-41—81, and Griffith Moody, 40-42—82.

His record round was good for a two-stroke lead over Don January of North Texas State as the field of 174 collegians completed the first half of their 36-hole qualifying round. They play another 18 Tuesday before the low 64 scorers swing into match play.

Kocsis' brother, Chuck Kocsis, won the 1936 NCAA golf title while playing for Michigan. It's a golfin' family. Five other brothers are well known for their golf prowess.

January was somewhat unexpected as low scorer on North Texas State's powerful squad. Billy Maxwell, the Texans' No. 1 man, soared to a one over par 73. However, North Texas was out front in the team title race.

North Texas' first four men needed a total of 294 strokes. Three strokes back, and tied at 297, were Ohio State's Big Ten champions, North Carolina, and Detroit.

Par of 36-36—72 on the 7,100-yard course was virtually unbreakable for the collegians. Aside from Kocsis and January, only Anthony Novitsky of Detroit (36-35—71); Lew Brown of North Carolina (38-34—72); Paul Snow of Northwestern (38-34—72); Grene Coulter of Purdue (35-37—72); Tom Nieporte of Ohio State (36-34—70); Curt Jacobs of Wisconsin (37-34—71); Wesley Ellis of Texas (34-38—72); Seymour Black of UCLA (37-33—70); and Tom Matey of Notre Dame (34-37—71); could equal or better par.

GEORGIA TROTTERS AND PACERS

Harness Race Revival Eyed by Dalton Man

By MARTIN THORPE

DALTON, Ga., June 25—Johnny Patterson, 30-year-old Daltonian, is one horseman who some day hopes to get somewhere in harness racing and help revive the once popular sport in the Empire State of the South.

The young owner and trainer, who has discarded his heavy grading machinery for poultry and livestock on his farm on the outskirts of Dalton, points with great pride to his string of fine trotters and pacers. For the uninitiated, a trotter is so-called because its legs move in diagonal pairs, while those of a pacer work in lateral pairs.

Though the rather short, affable Georgian trains some mighty good animals for fellow owners, he has a couple of his own which look very promising. Patterson has a deep and abiding faith in them and believes they will eventually reach the big time.

One is Sweetie Pie, a three-year-old, brown trotter. This filly was sired by Genoa, who was sired by Scotland, a trotter with a mark of 1:59¾ for the mile. Scotland has sired four Hambletonian winners and six two-minute performers.

Another of his string of horses is Silent Dewey. Although this black gelding pacer is 10 years old, he has a record of 2:05 over a mile track. At the 1949 North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh he finished second in a mile heat that saw the winner timed in 2:03 1/5. Silent Dewey was sired by Silent Gratton.

During all of last year's racing Silent Dewey was out of the money in only two heats. The same applies to Tryaxon, a five-year-old black gelding pacer, which is owned by Elliott Collins of Lyons. He was sired by Tryax, the latter having a mile mark of 1:59¾. Silent Dewey has defeated every pacer, at one time or another, that he has ever been pitted against on the tracks.

One of the most promising of the green trotters—those that have never earned anything—is Golden Sundown, a three-year-old. This bay gelding colt, owned by J. Tom Moseley of Columbus, was sired by Hall of Fame.

Spencer Dale, a two-year-old bay colt pacer, is a second "greenie" which Patterson hopes to develop into a winner. He was sired by Brookdale, who holds a 1:59¼ pacing mark for the mile.

NCAA To Leave The Garden Alone

Condensed From Constitution News Reports

Madison Square Garden, site of several of the "fixed" games that made headlines early this year, Monday lost its share of the 1952 NCAA basketball tournament.

A. C. "Dutch" Lonberg, NCAA tourney committee chairman, announced that Chicago's stadium will be used for one of the two Eastern regional playoffs next Spring. The other will be held in Raleigh, N. C., as it was this year.

The Southeastern and Southern Conference champions will play teams selected at large at Raleigh.

Defending champion Budge Patty and U. S. titlist Art Larsen cut a running swath through the opening round in the English tennis championships at Wimbledon. Larsen ousted Australia's Merwyn Rose, 6-1, 6-2, 0-6, 6-1. Patty ignored a recurrent foot injury as he breezed over David Lurie of South Africa, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Oklahoma's Clair Mays and Dale Dodrill of Colorado A. & M. were the first guards to be named for th eannual All-Star football game to be held Aug. 17 in Chicago. Mays was a standout blocker in Oklahoma's split T. The 208-pound Dodrill was described by his coach, Mark Duncan, as one of the best he has ever seen.

Former Athletics' and Phillies' pitcher Dick (Kewpie) Barrett was fired from his job as manager of the Victoria club of the Western International Baseball League. The Canadians were only half a game out of the league cellar.

Tony Trabert, University of Cincinnati netter, who Sunday captured the Southern tennis title, was among 32 survivors going into the third round of the NCAA tournament at Evanston, Ill. Second-seeded Trabert drew a first-round bye and won the second by default from Colorado's Everett Thalhamer.

Bill Veeck was still seeking 30,000 shares to complete his deal for buying the St. Louis Browns. Shares pledged so far total 21,500. Under the sale agreement the Veeck group must get 75 percent of the stock, or no sale.

Ogden Phipp's four - year - old Busanda was assigned heaviest weight of 126 pounds for Delaware Park's $50,000 New Castle Handicap Saturday.

Grattan McKlyo, fifth biggest money-winning pacer of all times, has been retired. The Ben S. Owen horse won $120,897, including the winner's share of the $50,000 Nassau at Roosevelt Raceway in 1949.

Dickey Eyes Home Run Lead Again

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 25—The big home-run bat of Jim Dickey, the former diamond star at Atlanta West Fulton High, has once again gone into production and chances are now that the Columbus Card first baseman again will lead the Sally League in home runs.

Last year Dickey paced the circuit with 20 round-trippers but after the first 34 games into the 1951 season, Jim had one homer to his credit.

On May 21, Dickey slammed his second home run off LaMacchia of Montgomery to regain his slugging ways. In his last 34 games, Dickey has hammered 10 home runs, giving him a season total of 11.

Dick Greco of Montgomery paces the circuit at present, having hit his 14th homer on June 22nd at Savannah.

Dickey has hit home runs this season in all parks but Augusta and Savannah.

Dickey's batting average has also started to rise. In his last 15 games, Jim has driven out 19 hits in 49 trips to the plate.

Jim also is getting plenty of walks this season, a total of 65 in the first 69 Columbus games. Dickey has 12 stolen bases, which ties Charleston's Smith for the league lead in this department.

Dickey also has 60 runs scored as of June 25. He was only two short of the league lead through games of June 19.

Fain Moves Ahead Of Robinson in Voting

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia Athletic star first baseman, Monday moved to the front in the race for the first base position in the American League division of the All-Star poll.

Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox wrested first place at shortstop from Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees with 459,774 votes to 437,816.

Voting will end midnight Friday for the game between the stars of the two leagues in Detroit July 10.

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, leads the individual vote getters with 493,737. Nelson Fox, second baseman for the Chicago White Sox, was second with 481,363.

Williams Surges To Fifth in AL Race

Hits at .500 Clip for Week, Including Six Doubles, Homer

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—Boston's big Ted Williams hit at a .500 clip last week and took a place among the American League batting leaders, a clique from which he had been noticeably missing.

Through games of Sunday, Williams got 15 hits in 30 trips to the plate. These included six doubles and a home run. He drove in nine runs and scored 10. His .332 for the season was good for fifth place.

The week saw Ferris Fain of the Athletics return to the top spot of the first 10 hitters, cutting Orestes Minoso's reign to a single week. Fain's average was .358, two percentage points better than the White Sox outfielder's .356.

Williams' 59 was the most runs scored and his 64 total for most runs batted in put him in a tie with Eddie Robinson of Chicago in that department.

Dom DiMaggio had the most hits, 90; Fain the most doubles, 21; Minoso the most triples, 9. Robinson and Gus Zernial of the Athletics were tied for most home runs at 15. Busby's 17 stolen bases was tops.

Stan Bats Less But Holds Lead

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—Stan Musial's batting average shrunk 11 points to .371 last week but the St. Louis Cardinal star still has a six-point edge on Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson in the National League batting race. Robinson is hitting .365 on figures including Sunday's games.

It was a week of sinking averages generally among the top 10 although Richie Ashburn of the Phils and Bob Elliott, of Boston, moved up to a third place tie at .349.

There were no violent upheavals in the individual departments. Gil Hodges' feat of blasting three homers in Sunday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh sent him way out front with 24 home runs. Kiner and Wally Westlake, now of St. Louis, each have 17 for a second-place tie.

But Let's Keep Our Powder Dry

Mr. Truman's foreign policy speech on yesterday at Tullahoma, Tenn., was an excellent one.

The President wisely did not mention directly the new Russian proposal for a cease-fire in Korea, but in an indirect reply reiterated this country's willingness to join in a peaceful settlement as always. But, the President emphasized, it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security to the area.

In that all free peoples will agree.

It remains too early to assess fully the Russian proposal. Mr. Malik's offer really amounted to something of a postscript to his full speech, which was the usual tirade against the "aggressive policy" of the United States and the West.

Moscow may hope to use the offer as further ammunition in its battle to divide the free countries. It comes suspiciously near the breakdown of the Paris talks, in which division of the West was the main, but unsuccessful, Soviet objective. And although the program on which Mr. Malik spoke was set up weeks ago, his cease-fire suggestion could have been a hasty addition to keep the "peace" initiative in Russia's hands.

Often in the past the Kremlin has advanced what seemed on the surface to be generous offers for settling difficulties. But invariably impossible demands later are made. That may be the meaning of the official Chinese reaction to the Malik plan.

Yet, it may be the Russians genuinely want the fighting in Korea to stop. It is plain, after a year, that UN forces cannot be pushed off the peninsula unless Russia joins in full force with the Chinese and North Koreans. That the Kremlin already has pretty plainly indicated it is unwilling to do. Moscow is fully aware the real price is in Western Europe. She may be willing to wait until she thinks she has the strength to accomplish that objective, or until her campaign to divide and weaken the West is successful.

It is more apparent than ever, as Mr. Truman properly emphasized yesterday, that united resistance to the Communist threat is our best hope for peace. And regardless of whether or not a cease-fire is achieved in Korea, that threat will not abate unless the Russians, through a change in government or otherwise, renounce their ambition to control the world. In the absence of any such hope, we had best keep our powder dry, our aviation gasoline production high, our aircraft numbers constantly increasing.

College Park Baptists Set Example

Sometime ago Harold Martin, who is in Korea, told in his column of the desperate need of Korean civilians, and especially the children, for food and clothing. Nearly all are undernourished, many are at the point of starvation and practically none has enough clothes.

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church of College Park responded immediately. An appeal went out for clothing, cod liver oil, powdered milk, blankets and other useful items. Shipments totaling 357 pounds were sent within a few days and more are expected to follow.

We congratulate the College Park Church and commend their Christian concern to other churches and organizations who may want to help, too.

The NAACP Convention

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People begins its annual national convention in Atlanta today. Among the distinguished speakers on its program is Dr. Ralph Bunche, whose work in the international field includes the truce in Palestine, negotiated after failure by several predecessors.

The NAACP has been, and is, anathema to the more conservative and an irritant to many, who do not object to the fact of its objectives, because it carries on a program of souped-up-aggressiveness, butting and gouging in the clinches, and has made a policy of distorting the picture as it actually exists for the propaganda effect. It has been as guilty of misrepresentation in one field as have its critics in another.

On the credit side is the fact that the NAACP has strongly resisted communism. It had a struggle for a while because Communists had infiltrated into its committees. They were ousted. Communists still seek to use it and at the 1950 convention the directors found it necessary to halt Communist agitators present.

Further on the credit side is the fact that the objectives of the association have been sought in the courts and within the framework of the Constitution of the United States.

By no means all the Negro leadership agrees with the NAACP, although a substantial majority does. There also is within the ranks a long-continued revolt against the present leadership.

While the NAACP has done much for the colored race, there is a debit side. The picture it has painted of "oppression" and "persecution" in the United States has been so magnified as to create considerable misunderstanding at home and abroad and to give to Communists far more propaganda value in the incidents of discrimination and racial violence than would have accrued from factual reports. As the only nation with the right of completely free discussion, we pay a costly price when there is distortion.

The Chinese Communists presently are busy starving and murdering thousands without benefit of trial by jury or a recognized court of justice. The Soviet Union has murdered millions, and millions more are in slave labor camps. There is anti-Semitism and a growing and admitted bias against certain races within the Soviet Union.

Yet, chiefly because of the NAACP propaganda methods, the relatively few cases of violence and discrimination in the United States, involving the merest fraction of the numbers of murders and enslavement in the Soviet Union, have nonetheless been magnified around the world to the detriment of the United States. That this country should have received more adverse propaganda in this field than the Russians is a fantastic injustice and a serious indictment of those responsible.

As a matter of fact, the constant improvement of race relations in the United States demonstrates the superiority of the American system. The gulf between complete justice and equal opportunity for the Negro in America is much less wide than that between the Communist and the non-Communist in Russia or China. The NAACP has had a major part in bringing about this progress, yet its propaganda has given to the world a picture of this country unnecessarily distorted. Since reform is in the courts, this harmful exaggeration is unnecessary. We suggest that without at all abandoning any of its objectives the NAACP could do a better job for all concerned, including the nation itself, by recognizing its old propaganda methods are not valid.

At any rate, there is another picture of the race question, and while it is far from ideal, it is in prognosis and present condition, superior to that to be seen anywhere else in the world. We hope the NAACP has a profitable convention, that the results will be constructive, and that they will see in the South enough genuine values that may be stressed so that the over-all conclusion will not be distorted.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

A Splendid Project

The Editors: About two weeks ago we read an article in The Atlanta Constitution from Mr. Harold Martin, Saturday Evening Post correspondent, who is now in Korea. He was telling about the undernourished and unclothed Korean children who were picked up in Seoul and placed in an orphanage.

We brought this matter before the Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church of College Park and the Brotherhood recommended that we sponsor an appeal from Mr. Martin to send clothing, cod liver oil, powdered milk, blankets, etc., for this purpose.

Last week we mailed 12 boxes of these needed articles, consisting of 357 pounds, the postage $41. We know that this cannot stop now and we expect to continue the work we have started.

Perhaps there are those who have not realized the desperate need of these Korean children, and after reading this article would like to join us in sending these needed items.

Criticizing the Solons

The Editors: I would like to criticize the 1951 Legislature. First, we had a sales tax crammed down our throats. Next, they thought of a way to protect the drunken drivers and the hot rod drivers by forcing the sober driver to carry liability insurance.

I know they claim that it would make our highways safer. But it will be worse than ever. Why? The drinking driver and the hot rod driver knows if he has an accident, the insurance company will pay off.

Editor's Note: If the law is enforced, it will force dangerous drivers off the highways.

Proud of the Name

The Editors: Alexander Hamilton was a most controversial figure and his enemies left behind many claims not supported by critical history.

Was he a royalist? Philosophically, probably yes.

But his greatest fear was that a demagog would arise in America—a man of surpassing charm, winning manner and vast skill in oratory who would sweep the people off their feet and get them to voluntarily surrender their freedom, through failure to exercise the duties, mental and physical, of freedom. His fears were founded in long study of the classics and of history. Many believe he has been fully justified.

Hamilton founded a school of American political thought that still survives after going under three great names and sundry smaller ones. His party has wandered far afield in search of votes but when it returns to Hamiltonian doctrines, it returns to power and the nation to prosperity.

Could We Maybe At Least See It?

A local barrister, who probably prefers to remain anonymous save in more remunerative counseling, called about daylight yesterday.

"When are you going to do something about this outrage?" he demands indignantly, his tone that of a man who has lain awake for hours pondering the injustice of a situation.

"What outrage?" I asks, sleepily. After all, there are so many.

"This Northside Expressway fiasco," he returns. "How long are you going to sit idly by and let one butt-headed fellow keep us from using it?"

"Which butt-headed fellow you mean?" I counters. "From the lack of progress, I wouldn't have thought there was just one but maybe a couple of dozen, working in shifts. . . ."

"Nope," he says, "if you'll check, you'll find there's just one man keeping that expressway closed. If he wanted to, they could have that thing opened all the way from Brookwood Station to North Avenue before this afternoon. . . ."

"I hope they don't do it without giving the public some warning first," I interrupts. "A lot of people couldn't stand that big a shock."

"That's right," he agrees. "In fact, you ought to write a column suggesting that, even if they've got no intention of ever opening it to traffic, they should set aside a day and let the public in to look at it. After all, the taxpayers have got 10 million dollars sunk in that thing. The least they could do is conduct tours through it so that folks at least will know what it looks like."

He may have something there. Otherwise, a lot of citizens middle-aged and beyond will probably never get a chance to see it.

You Don't Win On a Shoestring

KOREA—Dear Ralph: By the time this reaches you the war will probably be roaring again all along the front. The signs now are strong that the Reds haven't yet given up the idea that they can wipe us out over here despite their tremendous losses in the April and May battles.

We are confident of stopping them again, and bloodying them just as badly as before. But the tragic part of it all, to me, is that after each of these fierce engagements we seem to be no nearer the end of the war than before. And we won't be, so long as we continue to try to fight on a shoestring.

I never agreed with MacArthur's idea that we could win merely by striking with air power against the Manchurian and Siberian supply bases and mustering areas. We've had plenty of such targets in North Korea, and we haven't been able to stop their flow of supplies yet. But I do believe that if we are going to break the stalemate, we've got to nearly double the size of our force over here.

ROK Troops We still have to use ROKs in the line, because we don't have the UN troops to stop them with, and though many of the ROK units are good, many others can't be trusted to stand and fight, and every time a ROK outfit breaks, the UN units on each side of it have to fight like the devil to save themselves from being surrounded and chopped to pieces.

And I don't think that the United States should be called on to bear the whole load of replacements. Some of the other UN nations ought to share the manpower burden. If we had a division of French instead of a battalion, a division of Greeks instead of a battalion, a division of Turks instead of a brigade, it would make a lot of difference. We could run these people back to the Yalu with another 100,000 troops.

Forever With what we've got we may seesaw back and forth here forever. It's the best training in the world our troops are getting here, and if we ever fight Russia, Eighth Army will furnish the cadres for the new army. But it's a mighty costly training, too.

And even if the Chinese do quit, and pull out, and under the terms of some sort of truce we set up another divided Korea, that answers nothing.

—HAROLD.

Board Needn't Hold Back Now

The Georgia Board of Education, which meets here Wednesday, can go ahead and adopt an $80,774,380 Minimum Foundation budget for operating the schools next year now that the Federal District Court has upheld segregation in South Carolina's common schools. The Georgia board won't have to worry about abolishing the state's public schools for the present.

The three-judge Federal Court gave a two-to-one decision upholding segregation, but requiring that South Carolina equalize its facilities. It was a major victory for the South. South Carolina, like Georgia, has passed a sales tax to improve its Negro schools. South Carolina, like Georgia, had enacted a law stating it would abolish its public schools before it would permit non-segregation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will appeal the decision to the United States Supreme Court, of course. But, in the meantime, Georgia and South Carolina can proceed with their plans to provide equal educational opportunities for all children, regardless of race.

The State of Georgia will intervene in the South Carolina test case when it is appealed. Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook has called this case "the Atlanta case on trial in South Carolina," because it includes issues in a similar suit against the Atlanta Board of Education. However, the City of Atlanta has another defense which the South Carolina county did not have. Atlanta contends that the Negroes did appeal to the State Board of Education before going into court.

Dismissal Another test on segregation in Georgia schools folded up when Negroes suing the Camden County Board of Education asked the federal judge to dismiss the suit. Their lawyer admitted they had no case, because their own personal civil rights were not being violated. They were seeking to protect the rights of others. Shortly before the suit was filed seeking to end segregation in Camden County, that county had voted bonds to improve Negro school facilities.

Lawyers for the NAACP, which is holding its national convention here, will discuss probable court action on another segregation test. It is on the university level. It involves the refusal of the University of Georgia Law School to admit Horace Ward, 24-year-old Atlanta Negro with two college degrees. The State of Georgia has no law school for Negroes. Ward turned down the regents' offer to give him scholarship aid to attend a law school of his own choosing in another state.

Some say Ward will file suit in Federal Court, looking at Federal Court orders which have admitted Negroes to other Southern universities. Others say he may make a test in the Georgia Supreme Court on the contention that the state constitution doesn't require segregation on the university level, although it does in common schools.

Negro University The Board of Regents hopes to develop a university for Negroes at Fort Valley in the future. On the university level, as well as on the common school level, the State of Georgia has said it would close its schools before it would end segregation.

Meanwhile, the race continues between those filing more and more suits to end segregation—and the States of Georgia and South Carolina levying higher taxes, floating bonds and creating building authorities to make Negro schools equal to white schools. The legislatures of these two states have said they are willing to finance two equal school systems—or none at all.

'No' Makes a Good Control

The inflation control method used in the home of Riley Powell, managing editor of The Cobb County Times at Marietta, is effective to say the least—and not subject to congressional repeal. "We've been practicing a voluntary system of price control," says Riley, in his ". . . Where Angels Fear to Tread" column. "We take a look at the price of a tempting morsel of beef and then practice all of the control we have." Speaking of inflation, it's an ill wandering away that does no one good. Take the case of the nurse who got lost in the Great Smokies. At least her experience has taught us that if prices go higher, we can get along with less food and live. Or perhaps we will all have to take to the woods and live on huckleberries and wild crabapples.

HOW OLD CAN a mule get? At least 41 years, according to a story in The Clayton Tribune. Up there in the shadow of Rabun Mountain a long-earned beast of burden died the other day at that age after making 39 crops for various farmers in Persimmon and Rabun Gap communities. This faithful farm servant almost died in the harness—he plowed a garden four days before his demise. Even then, "the old mule didn't die," said the Rabun County weekly, "he just faded away."

Weak, But Still a Survivor

WASHINGTON—The United Nations' "Operation Korea" is a year old. Whether its duration will be shortened as a result of Jacob Malik's truce proposal is still a question to which no one yet has the answer. Meanwhile, however, the UN has been successful in its essential objective, which is too often overlooked and which it is well we should recall on looking back and taking stock. For, wrapped up in that objective, is the key to all of the future—whether the world community is to become an organized society able to govern itself under a body of law to maintain peace and justice and punish violators of that law. Such a body of law was established in the United Nations charter adopted at San Francisco in 1945 and subscribed to now by a total of 60 nations.

San Francisco was the result of the moral compulsion of the people of the world and in recognition of two plain facts closely related. One is the terribly destructive nature of modern war, and the other is that the world now is so small and interrelated—down, in fact, to the size of an ordinary community of not too many years ago—that such war reaches everybody, like measles running through a neighborhood.

So it was decided at San Francisco that, in view of these facts, this shrunken world community must be organized for law and order as mankind traditionally had organized itself for centuries in the local community, state and nation.

That was done, though loosely. Then in time Soviet Russia, which had subscribed to the UN charter, took it upon herself to violate the law by instigating the first open aggression through a satellite, North Korea, against the Republic of South Korea, a ward of the UN. That was an attack on the UN itself, its principles and its integrity, and upon all for which the UN stood.

The UN, under our leadership, met the challenge. Today 53 of its members are still meeting the challenge despite many vicissitudes, among them the hurling by Russia of another satellite, Communist China, against the UN. The UN saved itself and upheld the principle of collective security for which it was formed.

This is the simple and essential story upon which it is so necessary to hold our attention. It is recognized that this is not easy to do because the heart and emotions and passions also are involved through the sacrifice of so many young Americans. It is hard to accept sacrifices for a principle that at times may seem somewhat illusory and visionary, though it is a bed-rock, very practical principle that must be sustained if civilization is to survive as we cherish it—and if we are to survive as a nation.

In reviewing Korea it is helpful to think of what would have happened had not the UN met the challenge. It would have gone the way of the League of Nations, and it may be recalled that the wilting of the league let down the barriers for the dictators to start World War II. Had Korea been overrun and conquered, communism today would be sitting triumphant over our bastion of Japan and threatening the whole line of the Pacific. Undoubtedly by now Russia would have struck elsewhere, emboldened by the collapse of the only collective force able to deter her.

As it is, Communist China has been devastatingly punished, a blow to Communist prestige the world over, and the aggressive wave has been checked.

At the same time the UN's bold defense has bolstered morale of antitotalitarian nations the world over and alerted them so that Western Europe has been revived to build up her defense line, with our help. Likewise, Korea alerted us to hasten our own defense.

However, while the UN has survived, Korea has revealed weaknesses that must be repaired if it goes on effectively from here.

The UN still is a slow-moving, cumbersome agency. Unless the Korean experience is translated into action to strengthen it, we still will not have done the job and will risk success of the great adventure upon which we embarked at San Francisco and for which so great sacrifice has been made.

"Congress seems to have developed a lethargy about rising costs. There is only feeble shadow-boxing and laissez-faire attitudes by most members."—Column quote.

It isn't hard to criticize . . . as has been often stated . . . one need not be so very wise . . . or greatly educated . . . in fact, one doesn't need to think . . . mechanic, lawyer, farmer . . . or laborer can find the chink . . . in some one else's armor.

And so it is we turn our guns . . . upon the politicians . . . and always claim they are the ones . . . who caused the foul conditions . . . forgetting they are human, too . . . (but come to think about it . . . from lots of foolish things they do . . . there is some cause to doubt it).

They're worried, at the present time . . . somewhat, about inflation . . . the dollar now is worth a dime . . . at current valuation . . and getting lower every day . . . (because these lines are printed . . . they may be giving dimes away . . . as fast as they are minted).

It's easy to be critical . . . and hard to be constructive . . . but why are things political . . . always so unproductive?

JAMES RESTON

Moscow, Peiping Seem Out of Step

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, June 25—Officials here were convinced Monday that the Soviet Union and Communist China were taking somewhat different approaches to the problem of making peace in Korea.

The Peiping regime did not react to Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik's Korean peace proposals for over 48 hours, indicating to officials here there was at least some lack of co-ordination on the Malik pronouncement.

Moreover while the Peiping radio did broadcast an editorial from the official Communist newspaper Monday morning asserting that the Chinese people fully indorsed the Soviet cease-fire proposals, the rest of the broadcast suggested cease-fire terms which seemed to be at variance with those proposed by the Soviet Ambassador in New York over the weekend.

The thing that gave Malik's broadcast Saturday special significance was that, in the section of his speech dealing with the proposals for a cease-fire, he did not say—as he and the Chinese Communists had in the past—that Peiping's claims to Formosa, and a seat in the United Nations had to be recognized in any cease-fire negotiations.

The Peiping broadcast, however, while indorsing the Malik proposals, told the United States that if it wanted to stop the war in Korea, it should "fall in at once with the just and reasonable measures for the peaceful settlement of the Korean question repeatedly proposed by the People's Republic of China (Communist China) and the Soviet Union. . . ."

The Peiping broadcast also proposed something Malik did not mention, namely, apparent support of the idea that "all foreign troops should be withdrawn from Korea and the Korean people should be allowed to settle the Korean question themselves."

Malik's proposal was that the "belligerents" in Korea, interpreted by officials in a position to know what he meant, as "those engaged in the fighting," should negotiate the cease-fire

This apparent discrepancy between the two large Communist states increased the tendency here to seek clarification of what the Communists were really proposing as a basis for the armistice discussions before agreeing to enter into official talks on a cease-fire.

Assistant Secretary of State Rusk discussed with various diplomats Monday the problem of exploring Communist intentions. These included the new Australian ambassador and former Foreign Minister, Percy Spender, and the South African counsellor, B. J. Jarvis.

The question of whether Malik was speaking last Saturday with the knowledge and approval of Peiping was very much to the fore, and an interpretation of the controversial points in Malik's speech by an official competent to know what he had in mind came to hand Monday afternoon.

The two controversial points in Malik's speech were:

(1) Whether he was proposing cease-fire talks between the belligerents solely on the military aspects of the situation in Korea, or whether the Soviet Union was still insisting on discussion of the Formosan question and the question of China's representation in the UN as part of those talks.

(2) What he meant by proposing that the "belligerents" should enter into the cease-fire discussions. Did Malik mean, by the belligerents, the North Koreans, or the Chinese Communists, or both?

Asked for an interpretation of these points, an official in a position to know what Malik meant, made the following observations Monday:

A. The Soviet Ambassador condemned in his speech the policy of the U. S. in Formosa and in opposing the entrance of Peiping into the United Nations, but in the second part of the speech, which contained the cease-fire proposals, he did not refer to these questions. Instead he suggested "a first step"—and this first step was to be 'discussions . . . between the belligerents for a cease-fire and an armistice providing for the mutual withdrawal of forces from the 38th Parallel." The implication of this, it was pointed out officially, was that "the first step" should deal with the military questions, though the Soviet Union felt that the other questions of Formosa and the representation of China in the UN could be raised later in the conversation.

B. The "belligerents" in the Soviet mind were the North Korean Communists and the Chinese on the one hand, and the nations fighting with the United States in Korea on the other.

The United States has taken the position in the past that it will discuss Formosa and China's seat in the UN once the fighting in Korea has been stopped and the Communists have stopped trying to attain their ends there by the use of force.

All of this depends, however, on the willingness of the Communists to abandon their efforts to drive the UN armies out of Korea, and while the Malik speech seemed to imply the Soviet Union had reached this point and was ready for a negotiated settlement near the 38th Parallel, the first reaction out of Peiping was that "we must aim chiefly at wiping out the enemy (United Nations) effectiveness in the fighting."

This is not, by any means, the first indication that Peiping and Moscow have not always agreed completely on policy in Korea. There is a wealth of intelligence material in Washington to support the thesis that Peiping has not been able to get from the Soviet Union all the material it wanted for the conduct of the war. The British, moreover, have always been of the opinion that the Russians originally wanted to use the North Koreans to seize the Korean peninsula as a base for Russia, rather than Chinese power.

The United States Government has been divided on the question of whether the Chinese Communists were carrying out every letter of a Soviet plan or whether the Chinese were going beyond the desires of Moscow in an attempt to dominate Korea from Peiping.

The State Department, for example, has been inclined to the view that the whole Communist campaign in Korea, including China's large-scale intervention, was planned in the conversations between Mao Tse-tung and Stalin in Moscow and in other talks.

General of the Army MacArthur, however, has long believed that Communist China was not working entirely under Moscow's direction but was working primarily for herself and co-operating with Moscow only to the degree that it seemed to further Peiping's selfish objectives.

First Color TV Commercial Program Broadcast by CBS to Eastern Cities

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—Color television as developed by the Columbia Broadcasting System had its formal introduction as a commercial broadcast service late Monday. The hour-long program, which originated in New York, was a colorful occasion in the full sense of the word.

The pictures were also seen in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington via network relay. They were up to the standards already set in the many demonstrations that have taken place since the war as a controversy raged over whether this system or that of the Radio Corporation of America be adopted by the Federal Communications Commission.

The inaugural program had the cooperation of 16 sponsors, each of whose products was displayed in color. The show originated in a readapted black and white studio three miles or so from the downtown transmitter. Two cameras were used, with the regular black and white crew handling the telecast.

A host of CBS talent starting with Arthur Godfrey, who has become an enthusiast over color TV, including Ed Sullivan, Faye Emerson, Gary Moore, Sam Levenson, Isabel Bigley, Robert Alda, the New York City Ballet, the Bill Baird Marionettes and Archie Bleyer's orchestra.

The show was mainly a display of the various types of material available for color transmissions. It did include brief talks by Wayne Coy, chairman of the FCC which approved the CBS system after a long series of hearings and whose decision was upheld by the Supreme Court in action started by RCA; William S. Paley, chairman of the board of CBS, and Frank Stanton, CBS president.

A special viewing post was set up in one of the CBS downtown studios, where newspapermen and others were guests. In addition a few experimenters, a number of dealers and others were able to tune in by means of converters attached to standard black and white sets or by specially assembled color receivers, one of which has just been advertised at $499.50. In the four other cities, similar viewing arrangements were made.

Chairman Coy, who with Paley and Stanton appeared early in the program, welcomed "color television as an exciting addition to the American way of life," adding:

"This inaugural program is an hour of triumph for the scientists of the Columbia Broadcasting System who developed a system of color, now standard for this country. It also is an hour of triumph for the owners and executives of Columbia, who had the vision, the faith and the courage to fight the long uphill battle to develop the system and secure its adaption."

At a news conference before the program, Stanton said Columbia is pushing plans for manufacture and distribution of color sets, and dealers will have "all the color sets they can sell" by September.

Until the Gas Tank Overflows

WASHINGTON—There is a brand of engine oil that will increase your gasoline mileage by 8 per cent. An overdrive will boost it 20 per cent. An air injector on the carburetor will give up to 40 per cent more miles. A special brand of gasoline will go 6 per cent farther. Some trick goo that you pour into the gas will make it last 12 per cent longer. A set of tires with patented treads will give you 9 per cent more miles per gallon. A special head on the engine will turn up 15 per cent better mileage. I know all this is true because I have been studying the ads. So what I am planning to do is equip my old sedan with these widgets, pour in one final tank of gasoline—and wean it. From now on I'll ride free. Can't miss. Just add up those percentages. They total 100, or perpetual motion.

This research into methods of economical motoring I undertook after reading an advertisement about the horrendous things in the innards of my car happening constantly.

There's an engine there, all right but it spends most of its time distilling acid to eat holes in itself. I've got to get a special oil to combat this acidity because, as the ad pointed out: "It's not friction but acid action that causes 90 per cent of engine wear!"

I was convinced until I'd leafed through 19 pages of the same magazine, where another oil company published another eye-opener. This advertisement said: "Don't ever forget it's friction that wears out motors." Gad.

One brand of car now runs on thunderbolts, one on fireballs, another on rockets, a fourth on hornets, and a fifth on gold comets. Still another is jet-powered, while a British import gets its go from a mysterious something known as XK-120, which gives it a cruising speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

I don't want to cruise at 100 miles an hour. Nor am I capable of contending with stars, planets, balls of fire, or angry insects under the hood.

In my youth there was a gear-box that transmitted the power from the engines to the wheels. This is no more. The power now proceeds through sensational new and improved ultramatics, mercomatics, hydramatics, electromatics, touchamatics, power glides and oriflows.

Oops. Correction: Those Oriflows are shock absorbers; what I meant was dynaflows.

SLOAN HILL

No Story, But a Renewed Faith

In The Carroll County Georgian

Have you ever wondered how a newspaper feature article is written? . . . Or just what steps a reporter takes to gather the materials? Well, here is how it all comes about—although this particular feature story will never be written.

First, someone tells you about a little colored girl who was badly burned three months ago and who is still in the hospital. And about her faithful grandmother who sits by her bedside while she heals.

It sounds like a fairly good story: hospitals are always good material, and this one concerns a child—even better human interest stuff.

You go out to Tanner Memorial and info the administrator's office and tell Beverly Jones what you want. He's always willing to help, so he takes you to see the little girl.

She is 9 years old. Her name is Cora Lee Johnson and she lives across the Heard County line near Roopville. On March 22 she was watching clothes boil in an outside pot.

She stepped too close to the fire for one second, and her little clothes were ablaze.

Since that day she has lain in that hospital bed, her entire body burned—terribly burned—from her neck to her knees.

Anyone with 40 per cent of the body burned is supposed to die. Little Cora Lee has been there in that hospital bed with 70 per cent of her body burned, since March 22.

As you walk in, the smell of severe sickness hits you in the face, a strong, sickening smell that you will never forget—as you will never forget the 9-year-old girl in that hospital bed.

Her naked little body is raw—indescribably raw—with burns, sores and seared flesh.

It is sickening to see, and too sickening to write about—but you think of the little brown-eyed Negro that lies there day after day, patiently and without a sound.

Beside her bed is her grandmother, Pauline Thorner, who has hardly left the child's bedside since she was burned.

At night she often pulls two chairs together for sleep. During the day she sits quietly, sometimes dampening the child's head with a cool cloth . . . sometimes just sitting. Her eyes are red and moist, and her voice is quivering, but her face shows a faith and a loyalty that you will never forget—and that no camera could ever capture.

A faith in what? A God maybe . . . and also in man. The kind of men that build hospitals that help little burned colored girls.

Yet she is receiving the best of care that medical science can give her. Her burns require a bottle of cortisone each day at $12 a bottle.

No questions are asked when a child hangs between life and death—no questions are asked about race, creed, financial standing before she gets care. She is a human being and she is suffering.

And Cora Lee is going to live! But all because of many people—and a hospital that helps first and asks questions later.

So you leave the room and leave the hospital, and try to think of how to write about the faith in Pauline's eyes, or the suffering—the terrible suffering—that little Cora Lee has borne so quietly.

But you can't think of writing. You only remember the smell of the sick room, and Cora Lee's raw little body. And you decide this is one feature article that will never be written, for you can never tell it properly.

But for you yourself, you have a new faith in man; and a red brick building on Dixie St., and all the people there in white have a new meaning that they never had before.

Packard Patrician '400'—most advanced motor car in America

Close-up....of an American Tradition!

Sooner or later, every quality-conscious American family falls in love with a Packard . . .

And never has the pride of Packard ownership been so completely practical, because here you're getting not only the newest new car of the year... but the car most likely to stay that way for many a year to come! Just consider points like these:

You get the efficiency, and the incredible smoothness, of new Packard Thunderbolt engines—America's highest-compression eights. Plus: the service-free simplicity of a design with up to 25% fewer working parts than in engines of comparable power.

You get the famed Packard Limousine Ride, with all its new refinements—a ride that's unequalled anywhere for gentle smoothness and enduringly firm roadability.

The deeper you look, the better you'll know why Packard has chalked up the most illustrious durability record in automotive history. For it's a fact that of all the Packards built—in the last 52 years—over 50% are still in service!

So, in buying with an eye on the years ahead—this all-new 1951 Packard is a car you must not miss. See and drive it. And if you fall in love with it within the first fleeting hour—don't be surprised . . .

That's a great American tradition . . . and it's high time you became a part of it!

ON KITCHEN TABLE 4 HOURS

Lamp-Light Surgery Saves 4-Year-Old

LONE PINE, Calif., June 25—(INS)—A courageous old-school country doctor was credited Monday with saving the life of a 4-year-old girl by completing a delicate brain operation under lantern light on a kitchen table.

The physician, Dr. George Shultz, was more impressed with "the bravery of that little girl, Sara Sharr," who had taken the four-hour operation without a general anesthetic.

In true country-doctor style, the physician had to ride horseback over treacherous mountain trails to reach his stricken patient.

Sara was vacationing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sharr, 150 miles northeast of Los Angeles. The child was playing near a corral in the remote mountain camp when a mule kicked her in the head.

Her skull was fractured, and 16 splinters of it were imbedded under the fracture.

Dr. Shultz, who had brought Sara into the world, set out on horseback from Lone Pine, with his instruments and a supply of blood plasma loaded on a pack mule. Four hours later he reached the camp over steep trails.

Sara was placed on the kitchen table. A large wall mirror served to deflect light from two gasoline lamps. Two mountaineers held down the child's legs and arms. Two others held flashlights over her head, with the gaping wound under their direct beams.

There was no anesthetic, so Dr. Shultz administered morphine and bent over the white-faced child to whisper:

"Sara, this is going to hurt a lot, but I want you to promise me you won't cry."

"I'll do my best," Sara said.

Those who witnessed the operation said the child did not whimper once.

Willow Run Again To Build Planes

DETROIT, June 25—(U.P.)—The famed Willow Run plant of the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation will resume its familiar wartime role building airplanes, it was announced Monday night.

One-third of the sprawling plant, which turned out 8,800 B-24 bombers during World War II, will be converted for production of Fairchild C-119 packet planes.

Company spokesmen said the operations will not interfere with production of Kaiser and Frazer automobiles.

Officer Now Dead Charged U. S. 'Flubbed' War Effort

WASHINGTON, June 25—(AP)—Sen. Knowland, Republican, California, put into the record of the Senate's MacArthur inquiry Monday a letter from a U. S. intelligence officer, since killed in Korea, asserting the United States had "flubbed" the war effort there.

Knowland said the letter was written by Capt. John Thomas Wells III, of Baltimore, to his wife seven days before he was killed in Korea.

The letter:

"Korea, May 24, 1951

"Ann My Darling:

"I am writing now because I had to relieve the tension beside me and I can only do that with you. If I could only describe for you the true picture over here, then you would know more than millions of other Americans. But even a clear description wouldn't be enough because you've got to be here to realize how it is.

"There is such a hopeless feeling inside me because of the helpless situation we are in. Here we have enough force to prevent defeat, but we haven't enough to win a victory. What is more hopeless than that? Every soldier fights to win; that's what keeps him going.

"You remember that extremely patriotic feeling I had in Panama? Well, that's all gone now. Our nation has flubbed this thing so badly that it hardly seems that we'll ever pull ourselves out. We could, with a strong, ruthless, firm hand at the wheel, which we don't have.

"We need somebody who will overlook the petty details, look at the big picture, decide what is necessary to end the war, make a plan, give Russia an ultimatum, clap down a few dissenters (which we have a perfect right to do since we're supporting them all), jump into the driver's seat, put the gas to the floor and a hand on the horn, and let her roll so that everyone will see we mean business.

"Certainly we'll scrape a few fenders, may even lose one or two, but it won't stop us. What gags me is the way we're driving like Caspar Milquetoast, trying to avoid every bump!

"We immediately put ourselves on the defensive by knocking ourselves out trying to avoid war with Russia and she's smart enough to take advantage of it. If she wanted war, we'd be in it by now. Why can't we smarten up and take advantage of it by putting her on the defensive? I'm so damn sick and tired of this pussyfooting that I'm getting numb!

"And this business of holding to our allies at all costs, is so much flimflam. Damn it, it should be the other way around and we could make it that way if we half tried!

"I love America because you are a part of it, darling. You and our children are my America. That's what America means to me and I'm selfish about it.

"God bless America!"

"All my love,

"Jack."

Ward Action Has Backing Of NAACP

White Says Suit Up to Legal Staff

By HOKE SMITH MAY

Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Monday said the NAACP is backing Atlanta Negro Horace Ward in a fight to break down segregation in the University System of Georgia.

White indicated that Ward, with NAACP backing, will sue the University of Georgia for admittance to its law schools. But he added that a final decision on the case will come out of a meeting of the national legal staff Tuesday afternoon.

At the same time, White told newsmen at a press conference in the Municipal Auditorium the United States must adopt "true" democracy at home to preserve its prestige abroad.

750 DELEGATES COMING

The news conference was a prelude to the 42nd annual meeting of the NAACP, which opens at the auditorium Tuesday morning. Some 750 delegates are expected to attend the opening of the first association meeting here since 1920.

Ward applied for admission to the University law school and his application was rejected by the Board of Regents earlier in the month. White's statement was the first confirmation that the case would go to court.

White, son of an Atlanta mail carrier, said the Communists are using the Negro as their chief football in the game of international anti-U. S. propaganda.

He said incidents which have seemed insignificant in this country have been "played up in the headlines" in Asia, Africa and Russia.

As a result, White said he found members of the colored races in foreign countries "extremely distrustful" of the U. S.

COMMUNISM REJECTED

White said that as the American race problem stretches out over the years the choice between U. S. democracy and Communism becomes better defined.

But he asserted the Negro always would work within the framework of American democracy to gain his civil rights. The Negro has been among the first to assess and reject the Communists, White said.

He asserted there were comparatively few Communist card carriers among U. S. Negroes.

White said he believed the Clarendon County, South Carolina, segregation suit, which the NAACP lost this week, would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court. And he suggested chances of victory in the high court were good.

Segregation will be dead within 10 or 15 years, he predicted, adding that the course of world events would force the U. S. into a "bloodless revolution" against race bigotry.

Speakers during the week-long session will include Ralph Bunche, Nobel Peace Prize Winner and director of the UN Trusteeship Division; Phillip Willkie, son of the late GOP Presidential Candidate Wendell Willkie; Lillian Smith, of Clayton, author of the novel "Strange Fruit," and Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel.

Baptists Here Elect Dr. Aiken

Dr. Paul Aiken, pastor of Kirkwood Baptist Church who last week was chosen president of the Southern Pastors Conference in San Francisco, Monday was elected president of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers Conference.

Elected to take office with him July 1 were Walter A. Brown, North Decatur Road Baptist Church, first vice president; the Rev. Judson Jackson of Conyers, second vice president; the Rev. Lewis Kennedy, Brookhaven Baptist Church, secretary; Thomas Dixon, Edgewood Baptist, pianist, and the Rev. T. J. Holmes, Lakewood Heights Baptist Church, chorister.

MARY HAWORTH

Drinking Man Wants Wife, Children To Return; Should They?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I was 22 and just out of the Army, and Jean was 19, when we got married in 1946. We eloped, and although Jean's family—consisting of mother, stepfather and the old maid aunts—didn't approve the haste, they accepted us as newlyweds. They gave us household equipment and cash gifts; but we started in debt, and did little to help ourselves.

Within two years we had two children, and I had switched jobs, from inside to outside selling, which necessitated a new model car; all of which put us further in debt. Jean's mother and aunts provided clothing for her and the children. About this time I started gambling, and borrowing money. When my wife found out, she begged me to stop. I promised I would, but I didn't; and I felt like a skunk, and began to drink, and bickering mounted at home.

Finally one day when I was to meet Jean at her mother's after work, I didn't show up. I was drinking. Next morning Jean came to our apartment, in tears, to collect her things; and said she had decided to stay with her mother until I had found myself.

I threw a tantrum, to no avail. Now I'm told she expected me to bring her home that day. I started drinking like a fish, quit my job, and got another, weeks later. I was to give Jean a weekly allowance for the children; but I failed occasionally. All the while I was drinking and gambling.

On Sundays I would pick up the children; and once I asked Jean how long this could continue. She couldn't tell me, so I said bitterly, "Maybe I'd do better in the Army." She replied, "Maybe,"—and some weeks later, I joined a National Guard outfit that was leaving. That was seven months ago. We've been writing, and the letters began to melt a little, so I came home on leave, thinking things might be on the mend. But Jean's family is against me; and won't let her go out with me, though I feel she still loves me.

I am miserable; I have no promise of any future with Jean. When I tell her I love her and ask how she feels, she says "I don't know," through tears held back. I have a responsible job in the army and am doing well. Jean gets enough money from me to pay the bills, clothe herself and the children and put some in the savings bank.

But where do we go from here? What am I to do?

E. G.

DEAR E. G.: You seem to be quite clear about the necessity of giving up, once and for all, the behavior that you put your wife to flight. But I gather you aren't clear as to how you got on the wrong road. At 22, you very much wanted somebody to lean on. You wanted to play and be happy, like a child of whom nothing burdensome is required.

At the start of marriage you let Jean's family take over the role of all-sufficient parents; and your debts didn't loom larger than clouds on the horizon, to be ignored in favor of immediate fun. But by the time you had two children, facts were beginning to demand their due.

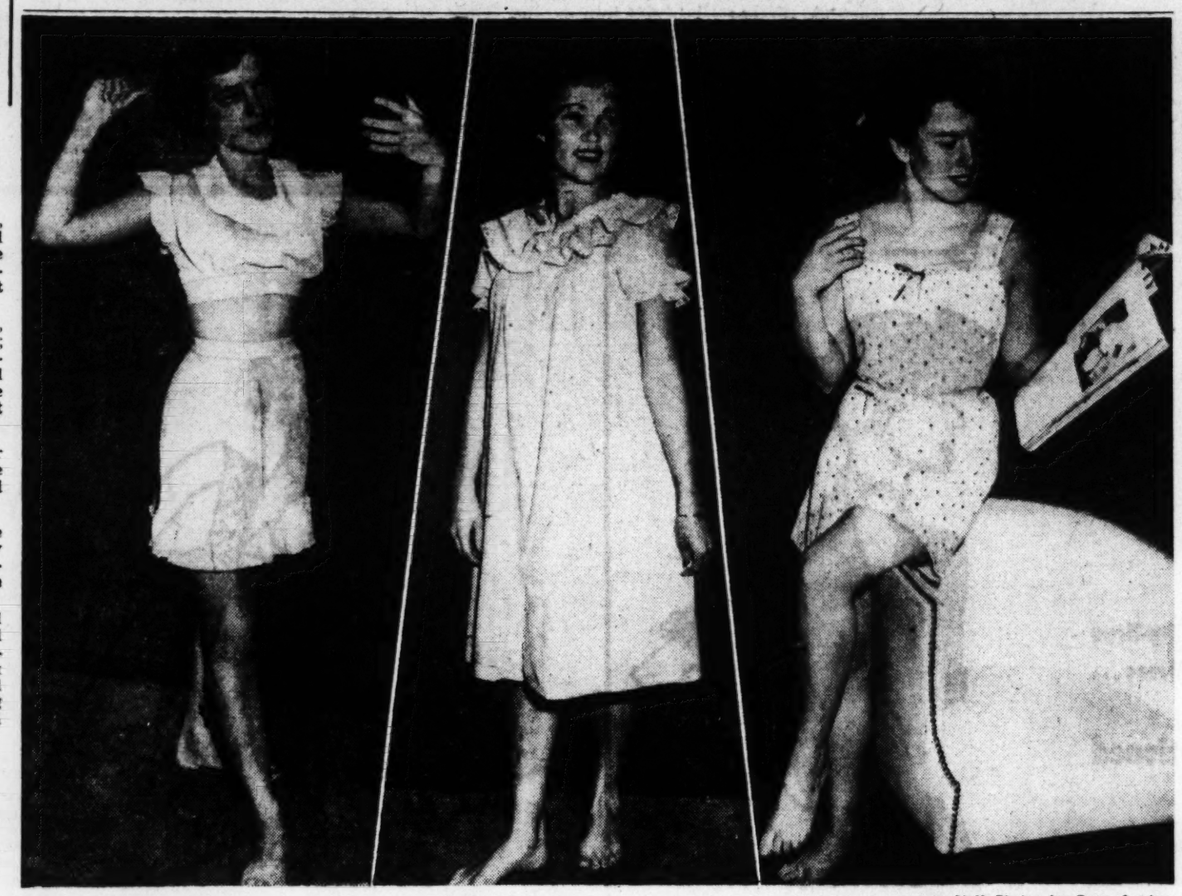

Responsibilities shirked too long began to snowball to frightening size, and you went to pieces, temporarily—drinking to drown out reality; and gambling in hopes of "striking gold" and solving financial problems as if by magic.

When you reacted to the challenge of Jean's departure by throwing a tantrum, you were hiding hearthunger, ever as she was. But your defiant manner trampled her bid for decent consideration. Fortunately your enlistment in the Army is doing you good; but in the beginning it was another escapist maneuver, of course—an attempt to outrun your frustration. Since you took the step, however, you've done much to turn it to profit, and make amends to your dependents.

As for what to do next, if you want your family, put yourself openly on record to win. Don't expect Jean to meet you halfway. That's asking too much, in the cirmustances.

But bear in mind that you threw her for a loss. To redeem yourself with all concerned, get in touch with her folks and insist on a hearing, until you've established a new beginning with all of them. Be patient, humble and persistent—to give Jean grounds for backing you.

SLEEPY-TIME GALS KEEP COOL DURING HOT SUMMER NIGHTS IN BREEZY SHORTIES

L. to r., Stella Norton in two-piece shorts, Carolyn Barnes in blue batiste, and Frances Mock in seersucker shorts.

Sleeping Beauties Wear Shorties

By SCARLETT BLANTON

Morpheus, that dear old gent with whom we associate lullabys and sandmen, will probably snap to wide-eyed attention after one look at the newest feminine sleeping gear.

You've read, no doubt, about the current rising hemline situation? Well, the trend has advanced to the bedgear department, and "shorties" are here to stay.

They come in half-dozen varieties. You can find a foamy white nylon tricot shortie gown, with a deep square yoke, lace insertion, and ruffles. Or a silky-fine batiste, in baby blue or pink with little puffed sleeves, and a deep lace ruffle around the neck, beaded with satin ribbon. The nylon is around $13, and the batiste, about $4.

Then again, if you're the shameless type woman who absconds with her husband's pajama top, here's news. Nightshirts, pint-sized, come in pretty broadcloth, tailored, straight, and looking like the real McCoy. Priced at around $3.

Shorties, night-shirts, and their kin were first adopted by the college clan, but soon got widespread attention from all gals interested in sleeping cooly. They're always cool in cotton or nylon, becoming (give you a little-girl look), and priced from $2.98 up.

They also appear in brief two-piece midriff shorts, and one-piece short suits, some broadcloth, many in sheer seersucker.

NEW YORK, June 25—(INS)—Families lucky enough to own a swimming pool now have a new protection for children unlucky enough to fall right in.

It's a plastic pool cover that can be removed by one person by rolling it into a compact bundle that weighs about 50 pounds. The cover can support accidental falls by adults or children.

In addition, the makers claim it cuts pool maintenance costs. It provides a barrier to keep out falling leaves and prevents dirt and rubbish from littering the pool. It's also said ot help maintain cool pool temperatures.

NEW SUITS HIDE FLAT SPOTS

Swimming Puts On Curves

By IDA JEAN KAIN

So you won't go near the water! It isn't that you would not like to swim . . . you'd love to, but your figure isn't good enough to risk being seen in a swim suit.

Why miss half the fun of the good old Summertime? Find a suit to flatter your figure, or at least conceal the obvious defects, and come on in . . . swimming is the perfect figure fixer. It works all the little and big muscles, without straining any. It takes off fat where the figure is bunchy, adds padding to scanty spots and makes for a lovely distribution of curves.

But don't get your old suit out of the mothballs. Bathing suits have changed—for the better. They're not nearly so hard to wear as those baggy sea bloomers grandma donned to wade into the surf, or those dreadful knitted tank suit affairs that concealed but revealed in silhouette.

Designers have done wonders with modern bathing suits and have fashioned suits to do right by every type of figure. For the heavy figure there is the bathing dress, with a flared skirt skillfully cut to cover heavy hips and thighs, and with a bodice designed to take care of full curves.

The flat chested girl with wide hips can be a bathing beauty in a suit cut on princess lines, and if needed, a built-in bra. The two-piece numbers are for the small girls. Some are cut high at the neckline to cover scrawny collar bones, and bare the slim midriff. The shorts of these have an elastic little girl bloomer effect designed to round out skinny limbs.

Try on various suits until you find the one that will be the most flattering. If you feel exposed, wear a long beach robe and slip out of it just before going into the water.

Swimming is ideal Summer exercise . . . cooling, refreshing, toning and relaxing . . . and sheer fun. It doesn't matter what stroke you use. The breast stroke is slow, and maybe a little old-fashioned, but look what it did for grandma's curves. The side stroke pulls the muscles out long and smooth slimming the midriff. The back stroke is my favorite . . . it's floating with free wheeling arm action.

Swim as often as you get a chance this Summer. It will do wonders for your health and your figure. Annette Kellerman was a lame and sickly little girl, yet with swimming she became champion diver and one of the world's most perfectly formed women. And she still has her perfectly proportioned figure . . . because she swims daily.

So find a swim suit that can keep a secret . . . and come on in, the water's fine!

Intelligent Spending Safe Way In Economic Democracy

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 25—The enjoyment of economic democracy must be as carefully safeguarded as the enjoyment of political democracy, D r. J. O. Kamm, director of the School of Commerce at Baldwin-Wallace College, reminded the nation's home economists Monday.

Speaking on the subject "Dollars and Sense Today," Dr. Kamm explained that our economic democracy permits each individual to go into shops and stores and vote with his dollar for the goods he wants; to go into an office or factory and select the job he wants; to go into the community and choose the place to live he wants; to do all these and a myriad of other things. We Americans have a vast array of opportunities for making choices.

"The layman, thinking of democracy usually thinks of political democracy. However, economic democracy is just as important to the maintenance of freedom of thought and the development of independent reason as is political democracy. True democracy requires freedom of choice in both of these fields," Dr. Kamm said.

Consumers should know how to spend their money. Referring to television sets in homes without modern plumbing and to the fact that, in this country today, public education receives only one-fifth the amount annually spent on liquor, tobacco, and movies, Dr. Kamm questioned whether the right choices were being made in order to receive the maximum utility from money spent.

"Children should be taught to eat a greater variety of fruits and vegetables, especially of citrus fruits and green leafy and yellow vegetables," a panel of research workers from Ohio State University said today as they reported the findings of a two-year nutrition study.

WATCH JUNIOR'S FOOD

Three hundred and eighty-seven children in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades in six Ohio schools participated in the meeting of the American Home Economics Association.

These findings correlate with studies in other parts of the United States indicating these deficiencies are general. We certainly know this is true in Georgia.

Other recommendations made were: Parents should set an example of food acceptability for their children to follow. When Pop says he doesn't like something that's all Junior needs to say, he doesn't either.

By careful planning, most families at present income levels should be able to provide a nutritionally adequate diet though in some cases the variety might need to be limited.

Apparently good nutrition is everybody's job for the study further showed that although the home undoubtedly has the most influence and responsibility, an effective nutrition education program requires long range cooperative planning by home, school and community.

FOOD FOR CIVIL DEFENSE

One of the most outstanding and muchly decorated home economists attending this meeting is Mary I. Barber. During World War II, she served as chief nutrition consultant to the War Department. She was largely responsible for the menus in U. S. camps and the wide variety introduced in overseas rations. Today she reported on a subject uppermost in many minds, "If an emergency came, could our civilian population be fed?"

Miss Barber described the comprehensive emergency feeding plan set up in her home town, Battle Creek, Mich., where a community survey located possible feeding stations in schools, churches, clubs, factories and other suitable locations. A Manual for Emergency Feeding has been written and is on file in every feeding station. (It has all ready been requested from communities all over the U. S.) The aim of this program is to be able to function within a few hours.

Cool Colors Cool You

Heat? It's all in your mind, girls. Or at least, all in your attire. Your temperature rises or falls according to the COLORS you wear. When you look cool, illusion or no, you ARE cool . . . but just jump into a hot orange number, my dear, and the old mercury seems to climb.

The idea of cool colors making you feel cooler—actually is one part fact, one part illusion. Dark colors, navy, dark brown, black, regardless of fabric weight, absorb the heat, turning you into a veritable steam oven. Whereas, slip into a little pale-green cotton and you look and feel like a lime sherbet!

Now on to the illusion . . . as we said before, wear a bright orange dress to the matinee, and you'll no doubt suffer from delusions of sunstroke. The same reaction results from other "hot" colors, red, hot-pink, red-purples, and their kin. They may be cool, fabric-wise, but one exposure and you look and feel like a hot-house flower.

Look to the cool side of your palette . . . you'll find such refreshing colors as ice blues, lemon yellows, sheer grays, turquoise blues, and parfait pinks. These differ from hot-pinks because they are predominantly blue as compared with predominantly orange. Wear these frosty colors, and you'll be the coolest-looking gal at the party.

Combinations too, make a difference of whether you're hot-off-the-fire or mint cool. Take a light blue dress, add to the throat a reddish-brown (artists call it burnt sienna) scarf, and presto, you're hot as a firecracker. Then, try a fern-green scarf with the same dress, and you give the illusion of a wood glade, cool, refreshing, and delightful. The same little stunt can be worked, surprisingly enough, on white. Try a bunch of fireman-red posies at the waist of a white dress . . . hot, isn't it? Then, swap the red ones for a bunch of deep blue-purple violets, and notice the mercury-drop.

Miss Kroog Engaged

The bride-elect attended Washington Seminary and Wesleyan Conservatory.

Mr. Shackelford attended the University of Georgia, and was graduated from Atlanta Law School. He served overseas in the U. S. Air Force during World War II, and is now connected with Cutter Laboratories in Atlanta.

His marriage to Miss Kroog will take place in July.

Silverplating

Silverplating was discovered in 1742 by Thomas Boulsover while he was repairing a knife blade in the famous English town of Sheffield, whence the process took its name.

He fused a bit of copper and silver by mistake. He found that when heated to a certain temperature these metals became inseparable. Thus began the manufacture of Sheffield silver articles, using this method.

American Beauty Accents Decor In Honeymoon Home

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

The way to achieve spaciousness in a small apartment, reasoned bride-elect Kitty Warren, is to treat it alike throughout. Consequently, when she and Lamar Ball, Jr., return to their home in the Castle Pines after their Bermuda honeymoon, it will be like walking into a symphony of gray and yellow, with an American beauty accent here and there.

Kitty chose a soft gray for the walls and for the wall-to-wall carpeting in each room. The windows are draped in daffodil yellow. The accent in the living room is an American beauty sofa, with a pair of floral chintz chairs repeat-in the color note. To make her feel at home, Kitty's grandmother, Mrs. C. Howard Candler, has given her a beautiful old walnut secretary from her home in Druid Hills.

Miss Kitty Warren

French Provincial furniture contrasts beautifully with the gray walls and yellow spreads and hangings in the bedroom. The American beauty of the dressing table skirt is picked up in a pair of chairs covered with a red and white print. The gray and yellow motif also extends to the kitchen and bath.

A CHARMING VISITOR. Mrs. Wallace Wright, of Chobham, Surrey, England, will be honor guest when Mrs. James E. Hickey, Sr., entertains at luncheon Wednesday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. Wright arrived last week to visit her mother. Mrs. E. T. Donnelly, on Peachtree Street.

ANOTHER POPULAR VISITOR here is Mrs. Thomas Scrutchin, of Chicago, who came to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Rix Stafford, at the Georgian Terrace, following a visit to her life-long friend, Mrs. Charles Howell, in Chattanooga.

NOSTALGIC YEARNING for a spot she visited as a girl took Mrs. William H. Glenn, to Roan Mountain near Johnson City, Tenn., last week. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair. The trio will visit High Hampton Inn at Cashiers, N. C., and Asheville, N. C., before returning home.

BENT CREEK RANCH near Asheville proved an exhilarating vacation spot for Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Pearson who returned during the week end. They joined their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Howie Perkins, of Bristol, Va., at the Ranch.

THE NEW ARRIVAL at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Jones is the fourth generation to bear the name, Julia Lowry, the line extending back through her mother, the former Julia Lowry Block; her grandmother, the late Mrs. Julia Lowry Porter Block; and her great-great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Julia Eason Lowry. The baby was born June 23 at St. Joseph's Infirmary.

IT WAS a round-the-state tour for Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, Jr., and their children, John, III, and Martha, who have returned after several weeks in Florida. They first visited Mrs. Morris' brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Funkhouser, in Tampa. Then they were guests of those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Biemann Alexander, at Daytona, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Davis at Atlantic Beach.

CMDR. EDWARD MUHLENFELD, U. S. Navy, and Mrs. Muhlenfeld have arrived from Coronado, Calif., for a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wessman, and Miss Bunny Wessman at 1765 Peachtree St. Cmdr. Muhlenfeld recently returned from the Far East, and will report to the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School at Annapolis, Md., in July. Mrs. Muhlenfeld is the former Miss Marge Baum of Atlanta.

MR., MRS. H. P. LOVELESS have moved to the Colonial Terrace Hotel for residence.

MRS. C. J. HADEN is improving from a recent illness at her Peachtree Street home. Her great-niece, Miss Anne Leach, of Palm Beach, Fla., who was her guest last week, is spending this week in Macon where she represents the University of Florida chapter of Alpha Delta Pi at the sorority's centennial celebration at Wesleyan College. Mrs. Haden is also a member of Alpha Delta Pi, having joined at Wesleyan in 1884.

Meets Robert Taylor

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 25—We put our heart in our eyes and looked at Robert Taylor. He put a spoonful of clam chowder in his mouth and didn't look back. This love scene occurred in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's commissary—and the fact that they call it a commissary just goes to show you how funny they do things out here.

As the daughter of a sawmill-turpentine-still operator, we have eaten out of commissaries all our life. We know commissaries. They smell of kerosene and rotting potatoes and pink coconut candy and plug tobacco. They're dim and musty and cool in the summer and in the winter they are warmed by a tobacco-stained stove that eats light'ard knots and has a figure like Charles Laughton.

But not MGM's commissary. No sir. MGM's commissary has decor. MGM's commissary has a soft lighting and white tablecloths and a menu that has just enough French in it to make ordering a meal a hazardous business for the likes of us. MGM's commissary has a studio policeman at the door. (We can see our black friend, Flathead, taking to the tall timbers at the sight of a policeman at the door of the commissary back in Creola, Ala.!)

This studio policeman looks vaguely like Van Johnson and sounds vaguely like Mr. District Attorney when you go lumbering up to the door, thinking hungrily of sardines and crackers and a wedge of rat-cheese with maybe a bottle of root beer.

"Your reservations, please?" says the studio policeman and we look fearfully over our shoulder, wondering if the press police badge that Chief Neal Ellis gave us would be of any use. But we reckoned without the studio publicity department. "Miss McCormick's party," they say smoothly. "And will you please direct Miss Monica Lewis to our table. She's lunching with us."

That for policemen! We sniff slightly, elevate our nose to show we're not accustomed to being stopped by the hired help, and we barge right into Peter Lawford. He smiles distractedly, looking for all the world like Laurie Lawrence just after Jo in "Little Women" has turned down his proposal.

Peter Lawford

Where are you going, Laurie?" we started to yelp after him, but then it occurred to us that for all his young, ardent British politeness, Mr. Lawford might rearrange that classic reply, "I'm going to the devil!"

So we sat down to keep from falling down, and looked at Robert Taylor. He wore a loud, plaid wool shirt (he needed it, the weather out here is gray and cold). He also needed a shave, but on him 5 o'clock shadow looks good. We smiled at him. He smiled in wearing the girl we had met earlier in the day on the set of "Singin' in the Rain"—Dawn Addams, whose father was once married to Arline Judge. She wore a white, jewel-bedecked wig that looked like the three top stories of a wedding cake and the ivory brocade dress which Norma Shearer wore in "Marie Antoinette."

"I have a very small speaking part," she explained gravely. "And I hope this dress brings me luck." She waved at us across the commissary and we waved back, feeling better. We hope the next time we see her, she will be a star like Norma Shearer.

Janet Leigh, the beautiful baby who just married Tony Curtis, came in and spoke to us prettily. Earlier we had visited her dressing room and mentioned a picture which Frank Tuggle took of Tony Curtis when he came to Atlanta for the opening of the Defense Bond Drive. The picture had appeared with a story of ours in the American Bankers Association magazine.

Janet Leigh

"Tony in a banking magazine?" she cried. "I can't wait to tell him!"

"You look awfully bridey," we commented shyly, taking in a strapless pink and black evening dress which she was wearing for a scene as a young lady lawyer in "Just This Once" with Lawford.

"Oh, I feel bridey!" she said. "A bride of two weeks and almost three hours. Mrs. Tony Curtis." She said the name with satisfaction and then joyously: "Actually, 'Mrs. Schwarz.' That's Tony's real name."

Our publicity department hosts (they call them junior and senior "publicists" out here) went into a huddle with the waitress over lunch. Did we want the chicken soup with the matzos balls? . . . Surely we would have the Green Goddess salad with sour cream dressing. . . . What about cheese bread and unsalted butter? . . . The almond cream pie is very nice.

And then Monica Lewis came in and pulled up a chair!

WED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Callahan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in East Point where they have lived for their entire married life. The couple has 9 children and 16 grandchildren. Mr. Callahan is a retired printing plant operator.

Hot Water Helps

Pouring hot water over dishes—after they've been washed—that are in a rack, had a double advantage. The water rinses off the soap and heats the dishes so they will air-dry in a short time.

As soon as you use a grater or shredder be sure to wash it promptly and then dry it well. If you do not wash it at once it will be harder to clean. Use a small brush in washing it and dry it in a warm oven or over a heating unit.

Warm Colors Stimulate

Most stimulants are fleeting. A tasty drink is enjoyable while it lasts. The pleasure from a fine show lingers on for a while. But there are stimulating media with which we can permanently surround ourselves. One such medium is a room interior of the right colors.

Red and yellow and all colors derived from red and yellow, such as peach, pink, rich browns, are warm and stimulating. They come forward and lift the spirits.

Facing Hot Day? Earth Pack Cools

Dorothy Sandlin, blonde soprano, suggests this home-made facial which she remembers kept her mother looking fresh and cool on the hottest days in Summer:

Take a half-cup of Fuller's Earth, mix it with enough sweet cream to make a moist paste, stir in the well-beaten white of an egg, mix thoroughly but gently so as not to dissipate the air-bubbles in the beaten egg white, and spread on the face.

Leave it on about 15 or until you feel a slight tingling, lying down and relaxing meanwhile. Remove with a cloth dipped in warm water and wrung dry. This has a mildly astringent effect.

Clean After Oiling

After oiling your sewing machine, go over the outside metal parts with a cloth wrung out of soapy water. Wipe with a clean damp cloth and a dry one. Sew through a piece of waste material until excess oil is absorbed.

Teen Tips On How To Beat Shyness

By SHEILA JOHN DALY

June is busting out all over, complete with bright colored flowers everywhere you look. But there's one bloom around that isn't new with the season—the shrinking violet. It's easy to recognize: The rosy glow of embarrassment caused by an introduction. And you'll know just where to look for this specimen—standing alone on the sidelines of the dance floor, sitting in solitude in the back booth of the corner drug store, or hanging around the fringes of a crowd having fun on the beach.

Recognize the shrinking violet? Do you ever see this sad specimen when you look in the mirror? Well, don't be surprised; almost every high school fellow or girl goes through some period of shyness and feeling ill at ease. The explanation is simple. Teens are growing up, doing many things for the first time, and fumble occasionally. Shyness isn't easy to fight, but because it can keep you from having fun, a smart high schooler will try hard to get over the feeling.

One of the greatest helps is recognizing that the problem isn't unique, and deciding to help other people get over their shyness instead of worrying about your own. For example, on a first date, instead of stewing over your making a bad impression on your date-mate, try to put him at ease. Ask him questions to draw him out conversationally, do your best to help him have fun and you'll find your own shyness slowly but surely ebbing away.

Since much shyness stems from not being sure of yourself, it helps to learn to do things well. You'll be more at ease on the tennis court with your date if you've spent a couple of mornings trying to improve your backhand; you won't be as edgy on a dinner date if you've checked a good etiquet book and know what to do if confronted by a finger bowl.

Keep in mind, too, that your buddies may mistake your shyness for snobbery. Maybe you're scared to try to make new friends because you're afraid you won't be accepted, but it often looks as if you think you're just too good to join in the fun.

Don't Curl Up to Read

Good seeing habits and good posture go hand-in-hand. Don't let youngsters curl up on the floor to read their comic books. Rather encourage them to sit in a well-lighted easy chair.

And remember, too, that children often need to be reminded not to sit too close to a television screen or to darken the room, as though it were a movie theater. Sitting too close or viewing television in the dark is apt to cause eye fatigue.

Watercress sandwiches are extra delicious when you spread the bread with butter or margarine that has been flavored with a little onion juice.

Dip Between Rubbing

The object of using a washboard is to force sudsy water through the fabric. Therefore, soiled pieces should not be rubbed until dry, but should be dipped in the soapsuds after each rub. The rubbing action should be gentle, using the fleshy part of the hand.

The couple will reside in Columbus where Mr. Ransom is associated with the Columbus Fiber Company.

Fourth of July Luncheon For Gay Outdoor Holiday

Fourth of July, official opening of the Summer season, is really a fun day and while no one wants to spend too much time and effort on entertainment, some sort of informal celebration is the order of the day.

In fact, because it falls in the middle of the week this year, and many people will be just staying at home, a gay luncheon or casual supper table decorated in our patriotic color scheme is easy to plan and allows the hostess plenty of time to enjoy this "outdoor" holiday.

Cover your table, for instance, with a red and white checked cloth and contrasting royal blue napkins, whip up a centerpiece of a collection of American flags in various sizes anchored in a well-packed sand pile, a child's drum to hold your flowers, make-believe fire crackers that you can make yourself . . . and you have a colorful party table with a minimum of work and expense.

Here's good judgment in Warm Weather Feeding

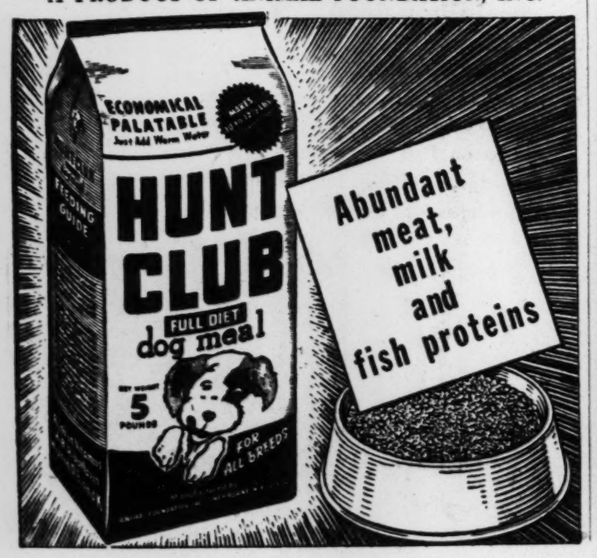

Feed Hunt Club full-diet meal every day. It may seem like monotony — but it is the kind of monotony dogs thrive on, and appreciate.

In warm weather especially, dogs need Hunt Club's taste-teasing flavor to keep them eating sufficiently. They need Hunt Club's digestibility for easy assimilation. They need Hunt Club's higher efficiency to make them feel more comfortable; they get energy and satisfaction without distressing bulk.

You're certain of freshness, too . . . the makers of Hunt Club don't want dogs eating stale food. And, since these are the most active days for so many dogs they need Hunt Club's high energy . . . it comes from proper protein, carbohydrates, and fat.

Change now . . . do your dog a warm weather favor.

YOUR STARS TODAY

General Tendencies — The slightest thing can stir up trouble today for those who are in the habit of letting details take care of themselves. This may be worrisome during the morning but will probably disappear in early afternoon. The late afternoon hours show good luck for people who like to speculate or take chances with their money—pick the winners, in short. Be sure to favor dark red or navy blue in your choice of colors for this particular afternoon.

If It's Your Birthday—Before the Summer is over you are due to experience important and possibly unexpected changes. Be careful to put aside a little extra cash to take care of such sudden emergencies because they have a way of shaping up before you realize what is going on. It will be difficult for you to keep your romances well balanced this year but you undoubtedly will meet a good many people and find attractive friends among them.

Smart Hostess Serves Ice Cream

For pure enjoyment and because of its wholesome goodness, ice cream is a refreshment to serve often to your family and guests. Quality ingredients in a carefully proportioned mixture are the basis for this dessert.

Ice cream is about 80 to 85 per cent cream, milk solids with sweetening and flavors added. The same valuable nutrients found in milk are present in ice cream, only in slightly different proportions. An average serving of ice cream gives about the same food value as ½ glass of milk.

Aid to Insulation

Venetian blinds have an insulation value for the home. When closed during the daytime Summer sun, they can keep a room nine percent cooler; during Winter, they can retain 12 percent of a room's warmth if closed at night.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

(INS)—A peek through the shop windows along Fifth Avenue is as revealing as a plunging V-neckline on a bare-midriff dress.

It tells all about what's best (and best-selling) in the Summer crop of clothes.

A survey of the accepted Avenue of Fashion shows that—in New York City at least—the black cotton dress has it all over any other type of color of frock for wear in daytime, evening and the dusky cocktail hour betwixt.

Black dresses can be had for $5.95 or $595. They're designed in much the same way, their price depending as usual on fabric, hand-detailing and label.

The usual daytime black frock pattern calls for short sleeves or an absence of sleeves, slim but not confining shirts, and black patent leather belts. Most of the frocks are buttoned up the middle, either from the hem or from the waistline.

For late-day, the ebony dresses come usually in sheers . . . from inexpensive cotton organdies, to moderate-priced "pucker" nylons, to costly silk serges and chiffons.

For trimmery, the favorite color is white. There are white linen, organdie, pique or dimity collars and cuffs. Hip pockets of black dresses jut out and spill over with clumps of white posies. Almost invariably the short sleeved or sleeveless black dress is modeled with white gloves and white hats, but black shoes.

Of the other dresses prettily posing in Fifth Avenue windows, the majority are in gay prints rather than the pastels which flooded the fashion market last year, but seem to be playing a smaller role in city style life for 1951.

There are a great many iridescent dresses made of combinations of cotton and nylon, or of the old favorite, iridescent chambray.

Embroidered organdie frocks in white with pastel or black accents at belt and neckline are seen in two or three of the better shops, and linens are on display by the dozens.

The return of the crinoline look is already in evidence, although the real petticoat fever isn't expected to storm the whole country until Fall or Winter.

Many of the Summer frocks, however, are seen in New York with starchy crinoline petticoats, or with horsehair braid sewn into their hems to achieve the same effect. The prediction is that these underskirts will be the rage revival next fall, under-wool as well as silk dresses, for day as well as evening.

Once-a-Day Dishwashing

Homemakers with small families can give up the old three-times-a-day dishwashing and do the dishes only once a day in an automatic dishwasher. Soiled dishes can be stored in the dishwasher and done all at once after supper.

Sunday Supper Rabbit

Why not make Welsh Rabbit a regular Sunday supper specialty at your house? It's an easy, nourishing dish. Instead of pouring the cheese sauce over toast, occasionally serve it over crisp waffles. Garnish with strips of crisp bacon or tomato slices. The family will say it's mighty good!

Food Label Ruled By Federal Law

A Federal labeling requirement governs the order in which ingredients are listed on the labels of food products. Ingredients are listed according to the amount contained in the food—the highest percentage first, then all the others.

Dog Bite Treatment

Father telephoned doctor for an appointment to bring the child for treatment of the wound and tetanus antitoxin. Oh, no, not tetanus, the doctor's nurse said, you mean Pasteur virus. No, the father persisted, I mean tetanus antitoxin. Resignedly, as though she despaired of making people understand, the nurse named the time when the man should bring the child to the office.

When the doctor heard it was a dogbite they had to go through the routine again, this time with the doctor laying down the law.

Tetanus? Nonsense, tetanus bacilli do not reside in the mouths of dogs. Their habitat is the intestinal tract of horses, cows and other animals. What was needed here was cauterization of the wound and Pasteur virus.

No, the father didn't want Pasteur virus. He wanted the doctor to disinfect the wound and give the child a dose of tetanus antitoxin.

The doctor held out for cauterization and Pasteur virus. In fact he declared that the law required cauterization etc.

The doctor misrepresented the truth.

There is no such law.

Perhaps the local health department urges cauterization and Pasteur treatment for dogbites. Health officers are generally doctor's aren't they?

This doctor's curious notion that lockjaw germs inhabit the intestinal tract of animals but not the mouth of dogs is as sensible as his notion that cauterization is good treatment for a fresh, possibly infected wound, as we shall see presently.

When he examined the wound the doctor noticed a bit of partly detached skin. He thought that should be removed.

The doctor evidently has never observed the habits of dogs. If he has, he could hardly assume that a dog's mouth would not harbor tetanus (lockjaw) germs.

The doctor was right when he said the loose tag of skin should be removed. Any speck or bit of dead tissue or any foreign substance in such a wound favors the growth and multiplication of any germs there may be in the wound. Especially lockjaw germs. This is the reason why immediate disinfection and treatment of the wound by the doctor (not by a person without surgical training) is necessary in every dogbite as it is in every Fourth of July, fireworks or gun powder burn or wound.

Lockjaw germs may be present in a wound and yet the victim suffers no ill effect. The germs are harmless. It is only the poison, the toxin produced by the growth and multiplication of the germs, that endangers life.

The 19th century practice of cauterizing dogbites, still followed by old timers in the medical profession and recommended by ignorant politicians holding jobs as health officers, is a vicious one. It would be difficult to conceive of a better aid to the growth and multiplication of the germs of lockjaw, not to mention other germs or viruses. Curious, quaint and typical of the mumbo-jumbo spirit in medicine is the doctor's recognition on the one hand of the danger of leaving dead or injured tissue in the wound and on the other hand his intention to cauterize the wound and so leave enough dead or injured tissue to assure the growth and multiplication of any germs there may be present.

'Georgian' Plays Part In Amos 'N Andy Show

By PAUL JONES

A "Georgian"—who never existed, much less in Georgia—is going to play a heavy hand in one of the most widely discussed teevee shows of the year which opens Thursday.

She's Henrietta Smith, plump nythical Madison farm woman, who, early in the Amos and Andy television series will receive, quite by accident, a proposal of matrimony from The Kingfish, one of the lovable characters created on radio many, many years ago who will come to life Thursday when WAGA-TV inaugurates the new dramatic series.

Kingfish

What part the mythical Madison farm woman will play in the later episodes in the lives of Amos, Andy, The Kingfish, Sapphire, Lawyer Calhoun is not known. Because the Amos and Andy series has been one of the most closely guarded secrets in the television industry.

Presented in all their visual glory the portly, romantic Andy, with his brown derby and inseparable cigar; little Amos, taxi driver and family man, dropping earthy words of wisdom, the drawling, slow-gaited Lightnin' will enact each Thursday for 52 weeks, a complete story within the 30-minute period.

Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll will serve as producers of the new television series. All characters will be portrayed by Negro actors, headed by Spencer Williams as Andy and Alvin Childress as Amos and Tim Moore as George (Kingfish) Stevens.

Meet the Press—Tuesday edition—has signed an outspoken critic of General MacArthur for the telecast at 7 on WSB-TV.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr (Dem., Okla.) will face the inquisitive panel of newsmen, including Jack Bell of AP, Joseph Harsch of the Christian Science Monitor; Ruth Montgomery of the New York Daily News and Lawrence Spivak of Mercury Publications.

This public events program is one of the top teevee shows. It is presented on Sunday afternoon and again each Tuesday night.

Frances Dee, film favorite, stars in the Fireside Theater version of "The Green Convertible" at 8-WSB-TV. She plays the part of the disillusioned wife of an alcoholic husband. Fireside Theater pulls one of television's greatest audiences. It's noted for excellent production values and good stories.

Walter Winchell will be caught in one of his favorite New York "hangouts"—Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club—at 6:45-WAGA-TV. One of WW's latest discoveries, Gloria Warner, ex-school teacher and now a singer, will share the spotlight. . . . A tense romantic story of a champion bronc-buster who rides for a fall will be recreated on the Circle Theater at 8:30-WSB-TV. Cloris Leachman and Lonny Chapman will be featured in the play: "Buckeroo." . . . Crackers and Travs will tangle at 8:15 with WAGA-TV cameras trained on the playing field.

On the Air—Paul Lukas portrays the role of music conductor Theodore Thomas in Calvalcade's "They Shall Have Music" at 8-WSB-NBC . . . Bob Hope's Tuesday stanza at 9-WSB-NBC will be one he tape recorded at Titan Palast, Berlin. . . . Variety, keynoted by hilarity, will highlight the Jack Pearl Show at 8:30-WSB-NBC . . . Met soprano Mimi Benzell will be featured.

The new Senate Crime Investigation, now being conducted by Sen. O'Conor will be featured on WSB-TV starting at 8:45 a. m. Tuesday. The probe will be "on the air" as long as coax cable facilities permit.

Collins Analysis Set For 'Views of News'

Journal Editorial Writer Bob Collins will give his analysis of the headline news on "Views of the News" Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. over WSB.

Journal Women's Staff Writers Anne Cogburn and Alice Richards will report on their coverage of the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago and Grand Rapids.

Atlanta Area Employment For May Sets New Mark

Industrial, commercial and professional employment in the Atlanta area stood at an all-time record high of 263,300 in May, a gain of 400 workers over the previous all-time high set in April, Ben T. Huiet, Georgia's Commissioner of Labor, reported Monday.

One of the factors in this increased employment record, Huiet said, was the continued gain in the durable goods industries in the area. These gains included 600 workers in the construction industry, 500 in manufacturing and 700 at the Lockheed bomber plant at Marietta.

While durable goods were thus on the upgrade, Huiet said that during the month the food processing industry here suffered a decline of 300 workers and the miscellaneous apparel segment of the textile industry showed a seasonal decline of 200 workers.

Huiet said that the average weekly earnings in Atlanta area manufacturing industries during May were $52.50, compared with $51.58 for April and $47.31 for May, 1950. He said that the average weekly hours were 40.7 for May, 40.3 for April and 39.1 for May, 1950, and that the average hourly earnings were $1.29 for May, $1.28 for April and $1.21 for May, 1950.

$1 Billion in Loans

Total loans at 27 reporting member banks in 10 leading cities of the Sixth Federal Reserve District for the week ended June 20 amounted to $1,090,000,000, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reported Monday.

FRB says that this figure shows a decline of $9,000,000 from the total of the previous week, but an increase of $176,000,000 over the total for the same week in 1950.

Fellowship Continued

The Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. has awarded $2,000 to Georgia Tech to continue a fellowship in chemical engineering for the period from Sept. 15, 1951, to June 30, 1952. Edwin M. Koeritz is the recipient of this fellowship.

Imports Increase

Value of imports moved through customs districts in the Southeast during the first quarter of 1951 showed an increase of five percent over the value for the same period of 1950, the Atlanta regional office of the U. S. Department of Commerce reports. The value of the imports recorded in these districts for the first quarter of this year was $75,400,000. Exports during this period were valued at $117,100,000.

Augusta OPS Office

George D. Patterson, Jr., OPS Regional Director in Atlanta, said Monday that OPS is establishing temporary offices in Augusta to aid the businessmen in that area in the application of OPS regulations. He said that W. C. MacArthur and A. E. Young will be in charge of the new office.

Bank Clearings

Bank clearings in Atlanta for the week ended June 20 totalled $334,200,000, an increase of 23.1 per cent over the $271,400,000 volume reported for the same week in 1950, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reports. The increase for the 25 leading cities of the country for this period was 12.1 per cent.

Bonds Follow Stocks Down

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—Corporate bonds followed stocks downward Monday in the heaviest trading since May 24. Losses of 2 points or more were frequent, particularly in the rails.

Some government bonds were narrowly higher despite the drop in corporate bonds.

Japanese bonds were widely mixed with the gainers outnumbering the losers on news of the Russian peace conference proposal for Korea and the word from Japan that a final draft of Japanese peace treaty was near completion.

Bond sales on the stock exchange totaled $3,220,000 par value compared with $2,190,000 Friday.

Grains Lower On Peace Talk

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—Grains swept sharply lower on the Board of Trade Monday in response to Russia's proposal for discussions leading to a cease-fire in the Korean War.

Heavy selling knocked prices down around 6 cents in major cereals at the start. The market then rallied. It had to take a second selling wave later, however, on news the official Communist newspaper in Peiping had said the Chinese people endorse the Russian proposal.

Wheat, corn, rye and lard sold at the lowest prices since last December. Soybeans were at lows since last November and oats since June of last year.

A feature of the selloff was the relative resistance of wheat. It fell quite sharply, but not as much as did other grains. It also showed more firmness on rallies. Brokers attributed this to reports of damage to wheat in Kansas from rains, as well as expectations of export business this week.

Wheat closed 2⅝-3¼ lower, July 2.33-2.33¼, corn 3¼-3¾ lower, July $1.64¾-1.64½, oats 3 to 5½ lower, July 71½-71, rye (old style) 5⅝-6¾ lower, July $1.87¼, soybeans 5¼-9¼ lower, July $2.96¼, and lard 62 to 88 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $14.65.

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—Wheat was considered 3 cents a bushel lower on the cash market Monday; basis unchanged; receipts 17 cars. Corn was 3 to 5 cents off on good grades; basis unchanged; receipts 340 cars. Oats were 4 to 6 cents less; basis ½ to 1 cent lower; receipts 19 cars. Soybeans receipts were 87 cars.

Drygoods

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—The cotton textile market was dull Monday. The Russian proposal for a truce in Korea created a good deal of hesitancy in the market for the possible impact of this development on military buying of cotton goods. However, buyers have been on the sidelines for some time reflecting substantial good inventories to be liquidated.

The wool goods market was quiet. The highlight was the invitation by the New York quartermaster purchasing office for bids on 6,300,000 yards of serge cloth for the Army. Some time ago there were reports that this order was pending.

On the serge order, one-half of the yardage will be worsted-nylon for November-December delivery, with the balance all worsted for September-October delivery. Some quarters also expected an invitation for 3,000,000 yards of woolen-nylon shirtings soon.

Rayon goods were slow.

Peace Move Causes Drop In Market

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, June 25—The overtures of the Russians for a cease-fire order in Korea produced a drastic reaction Monday in prices on the stock market. Late support, however, reduced by almost one-half the extreme losses of the day and left the composite rate lower by 2.52 points.

The peace proposal may have caught many individual investors off guard and resulted in the two selling waves, but for the past week it has been obvious in financial circles that something in the nature of peace feelers could be expected. The market last week mirrored this view. Primarily any prospect for peace in Korea was viewed as lessening public support for the armament program and the economic controls now in effect and projected for the nation.

Statements by high Government officials lent support to the feeling that any cessation of hostilities in Korea would not impede the defense program. But, the mere suggestion brought forward by the Russians seemed to have a psychological effect on shareholders who thought the stepped-up production by heavy industry might suffer.

Business was fairly uniform throughout the day and totaled 2,440,000 share, largest since May 24, in contrast to last Friday's transfers of 1,340,000 shares. In the broadest dealings since the same date, 957 of the 1,197 issues were lower at the close and only 94 ended higher. New lows for 1951 were registered by 331 stocks.

United States Steel, the day's most active issue on 35,100 shares, slipped ⅞ point net to a close of 38⅞. Bethlehem cut an inroad in half and ended lower by 1¼ points at 48. Republic was off 1⅛ and Youngstown by 1⅜ points.

Standard of New Jersey shaved a fall of 3½ points to a net of ⅞ point at 61⅝ with Phillips and Gulf both lowered 3 points, Cities Service by 2⅛ and Texas and Pacific Land Trust by 3½ points.

New Chrysler Prices Okayed

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, June 25—(AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization announced Monday retail base prices for new, V-8 engine models recently offered by the Chrysler Corporation.

The new cars are a higher-priced line, but OPS said they do not represent price increases, as such, because of basic engineering changes.

The agency said that henceforth, simultaneously with establishing a wholesale ceiling for any new model car not a counterpart of one previously produced, it will issue a special order setting a dollars-and-cents list price for dealers, embodying the same percentage markup over the manufacturer's wholesale ceiling price for the new model that the dealer obtained on the best-selling model of the same series after March 1, 1951.

In arriving at their individual ceilings, dealers may add amounts for taxes, transportation costs, and charges for preparing and conditioning and for any extra equipment as permitted by the regulation.

NPA Official Lauds Attitude Of Southeast

Businessmen in the Southeast are showing a marked inclination to comply with all rules and regulations of the National Production Authority and so far no case has come to light to warrant prosecution in order to obtain compliance with these rules and regulations, Edward G. Lawlor, Assistant to the Director of Field Service for the U. S. Department of Commerce, in Washington, said here Monday.

Lawlor, in Atlanta to attend a conference of compliance officials in the Southeast, said that most violations of the NPA orders were the result of ignorance and that a campaign of education, now under way, would remove most of the causes of violation.

"However, in every emergency such as the present," he commented, "you always find people who are trying to cheat and we are getting reports of people in that category. It is our feeling that businessmen have had enough time to familiarize themselves with these orders and from now on out we are going more and more to take the attitude that violations of these orders are wilful violations. And that, of course, may lead to prosecutions."

So far, Lawlor revealed, the Atlanta Regional Office of the U. S. Department of Commerce has investigated about 12 cases which looked like wilful violations of NPA orders, but careful investigation has failed to reveal a single case which would warrant a prosecution.

Rease Inge Is Promoted By Squibb

Rease Inge, for the past 12 years Atlanta Division Manager for E. R. Squibb & Sons, at 820 Spring Street, N. W., has been promoted to Executive Vice President of Lentheric, Inc., manufacturers of perfumes and one of Squibb's wholly-owned subsidiaries.

In addition to becoming executive vice president, Inge will also be a member of Lentheric's Board of Directors and a member of the Management Committee. Starting on July 1, he will make his headquarters at 673 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

A native of Texas, Inge has been with Squibb for 17 years. Prior to coming to Atlanta, he was with Squibb in Denver, Dallas and Houston.

Inge, who lives with his wife and two children at 1846 West Wesley Road, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Rotary Club of Atlanta and is also a member of the Appeals Review Board, the function of which is to pass on all applications in Atlanta for campaigns of a charitable nature.

Cotton Futures Close Lower

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP). Cotton futures declined sharply Monday on the Russian proposals for a Korean truce. Heavy liquidation extended early losses to more than $3 a bale and while the market at times recovered partially on short covering and trade buying the upturns met increased selling.

The market was already vulnerable to selling in view of prospects for a large cotton crop this year coupled with the poor demand for cotton goods.

The ECA issued a cotton purchase credit of $2,500,000 to Italy.

Appliance Sales Reviving After Slump, Says GE Man

Sales of home appliance equipment, such as refrigerators, ranges and washing machines, have within the past 10 days shown signs of a pickup in volume in the Southeast, Louis H. Miller, marketing manager for the major appliance department of the General Electric Company, at Bridgeport, Conn., said here Monday.

"Business in this line has been slow for the past 60 days," he said, "but we are now hopeful that the recent pickup in the home appliance business indicates the recent slack market in this end of our business is nearing an end."

In Atlanta for a conference with the Southeastern distributors of the General Electric Company, Miller said that throughout the nation sales in the home appliance business so far this year are slightly more than 25 percent below the 1950 volume for the same period. He attributed this slowdown to the influence of Regulation W in tightening up the credits on retail sales. In addition, he said that the large volume of stocking up by retailers and distributors during the first quarter of this year in anticipation of shortages had had much to do with the slack business during the second quarter.

"About 60 days ago," he explained, "the distributors and retailers just quit buying home appliances and that has caused a slowdown all along the line. However, the indications now are that we're approaching a period of better business in the home appliance end of our business."

Despite the slack movement in new items of home equipment, Miller said there has been a big market for used home appliances.

"For example, every dealer is short of used refrigerators," he said. "That appears to indicate that Regulation W has been the main factor in slowdown in the sales of new refrigerators and other items in the home appliance field."

At the beginning of 1951, Miller said, it looked as if the industry would produce 5,000,000 refrigerators this year. At present, he continued, the figure looks closer to 4,000,000. And with the increasing scarcity of materials, he predicted the industry may not be able to supply the demand later in the year.

Miller said that since the end of World War II, the increase in volume of the home appliance business in the South has been at least 20 percent greater than that of any other section of the country. This, he said, was due to the great increase in the purchasing power of this region and he predicted this increase will continue at a rate in excess of the rate for the rest of the nation.

The conference of GE distributors will continue here through Wednesday.

NO HARM DONE

70-Year-Old Bigamist Gets 5 Days

MAIDSTONE, England, June 25. (AP)—Seventy-two-year-old John Henry Ellwood admitted in court Monday that last October he married a 70-year-old widow when he already had a wife.

"I do not think any harm has been done to anyone," said Justice John Byrne, and sentenced Ellwood to serve a prison term of five days.

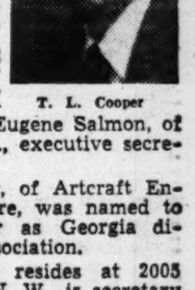

Married first in 1917, Ellwood left his wife after 10 months and did not see her for 20 years. Then he passed her on a street, but that was all.

The prosecutor said the circumstances of the bigamy "were a little out of the ordinary" and that the second marriage was an affair of two lonely and aging persons getting together for mutual comfort.

"After more than 30 years, I thought of myself as a widower, or next thing to it," said Ellwood contritely.

Joint Health Board Favored by Jackson

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A joint Atlanta-Fulton County Health Board could be established with the consent of both governments and without additional action by the Legislature, Atlanta Councilman James E. Jackson said Monday.

Seeking a solution to the current controversy over the Plan of Improvement's health services, Jackson advocated the joint board after attacking a provision of the Plan that states Atlanta will pay half the costs of DeKalb County's Health Department for services rendered to Atlantans living in DeKalb County.

Maintaining that Atlantans in DeKalb would have to pay "double tax" since they are already paying for services in Fulton, Jackson said DeKalb could conceivably "double or quadruple" its health service expenses and Atlanta would be forced to pay half the costs.

The Councilman also lambasted a threat by DeKalb Rep. Hugh McWhorter to block any additional Plan bills if the disputed provision is attacked.

Jackson was backed by City Attorney Jack Savage in his contention that the provision in question is "unconstitutional," but City leaders are reluctant to attack it since it is part of the Plan.

Rep. McWhorter said the DeKalb delegation entered into Plan legislation "in good faith" and expected those who urged passage of Plan bills to "hold up their end of the bargain." The solon said Jackson was "one of those who spent a good deal of time at the Capitol plugging the Plan."

"The DeKalb delegation is going to protect DeKalb interests, even if it means blocking Plan legislation," Rep. McWhorter said.

The DeKalb solon said that under the health provision Atlantans in DeKalb would only be paying DeKalb for health services now rendered by Atlanta but to be rendered under the Plan by the DeKalb department.

$10,000 Inspection Fee

The Atlanta Housing Authority must pay a $10,000 city building inspection fee on the 990-unit, $10,000,000 Negro low-rent housing development it will build on Pryor Rd., if City Council follows a recommendation of its Tax Committee.

A petition by Frank White, technical director for the housing organization, asking that it be relieved from paying the fee was denied by unanimous vote Monday of the tax group.

The committee also agreed to reorganize the Building Inspection Department creating a division of Heating and Ventilating under which will be included smoke abatement activities. Three new positions will be established in the division. A proposal to increase fees for installing heating and ventilating equipment was sent to the code committee. A public hearing would be necessary before increases could be adopted.

Top Billing Lures Enterprising Thief

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 25 — (AP) — A furniture store here rigged up a bushel basket overflowing with dollar bills as a come-on in a $3,000 electrical appliance advertising contest.

But the contest got short-circuited.

During the night, somebody broke in through the Sterchi Company roof and made off with what he must have thought was a small fortune—but which turned out to be only 50 one-dollar bills which had been used as top dressing to cover a basket full of waste paper.

New Garbage Dump

Health Engineer Stafford Graydon announced he will take steps Tuesday to open a new City dump on Claire Dr., near Pryor Rd. for yard rubbish collected in the southern and eastern area of Atlanta. Graydon said the dump will be earth filled and no burning will take place there.

Sylvan Hills Meeting

Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, and J. Austin Dilbeck and D. M. Therrell, members of the Board of Education, discussed the impact of the Plan of Improvement on Atlanta schools at a meeting of the Sylvan Hills Civic Club Monday night. . . . A new elementary school is being planned for the Cascade Heights area, and a survey for a suitable site is under way.

Virginia Ave. Bridge

When the new $83,000 Virginia Ave. bridge over the Southern Railway is completed, traffic will be channelized to speed up the flow, under plans being studied by Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins and Councilman John A. White. A small plot of ground will be obtained from Henry Grady High school to permit extension of the Virginia Ave. approach at Boulevard westward into Tenth St. A traffic signal light would control vehicles, under the tentative plan.

To Discuss Traffic

Although it is expected that a speed limit of 55 miles an hour will be set on the completed metropolitan expressway system, the City Traffic Commission is scheduled Wednesday to discuss vehicular speed maximums which should be set when the Plan of Improvement becomes operative next year. One proposal is to establish a basic 25-mile-an-hour speed limit throughout Atlanta with certain streets zoned upward. Another suggestion is to establish a 25-mile speed zone within a three-mile radius of Five Points and a 35-mile limit outside the three-mile circle. The commission also will conduct public hearings on non-parking proposals for Edgewood and Avon Aves.

Churches To Aid In Civil Defense

The Atlanta Christian Council Monday pledged its co-operation in the Atlanta area civil defense program and agreed to permit use of loudspeaker equipment in churches to sound air raid sirens.

George M. "Pup" Phillips, Atlanta area director of civil defense, addressed the ministers in the Council and asked their help in arousing the public to the dangers of an atomic attack.

Dr. Robert Giffen, executive secretary of the Council, who recently returned from a conference with 350 other executive secretaries at Lake Geneva, Wis., described a 10-year program of evangelism to be promoted with the help of laymen throughout the nation.

Board Delays Appeal Plea Of Walton

By BILL DIEHL

The Fulton County Civil Service Board Monday postponed a scheduled hearing on an appeal by C. E. (Dink) Walton, Fulton fireman who was relieved from duty with the Fire Department last week by Chief C. C. Styron.

Walton, brother of transit union leader Jesse Walton, was relieved, pending the hearing, following his conviction in Fulton Criminal Court on a charge of lottery.

Walton was arrested in a raid on several restaurants sponsoring electrically operated horseracing machines, dubbed "lottery devices" by Sol. John I. Kelley last Feb. 7. Walton was sentenced to serve 12 months, but the sentence was suspended after he paid a $100 fine.

Death Probe

Members of the Fulton Coroner's office said Monday the investigation into the death of 35-year-old Marion C. Cotton, Smyrna plumber who died of heat exhaustion at Ben Hill Prison Camp Saturday, probably will be completed Wednesday.

Cotton, who died while on a work detail in his first day in prison, was buried Monday afternoon. He was sentenced to prison after his 12-month suspended sentence for wife-beating was revoked because of a drunk charge.

The victim apparently suffered either a sunstroke or heat exhaustion while working with a road crew, prison officials said. He died soon after being admitted to Grady Hospital.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Notice to bidders:

Sealed proposals will be received by the Georgia Ports Authority, at the Office of the General Manager in Savannah, Georgia, up to 10:00 o'clock a. m., Eastern Standard Time, July 10, 1951, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read, for the furnishing of labor, materials and equipment under several bidding schedules entering into the construction of Port Facilities for Savannah consisting of: Schedule B-1 which includes Site Preparation, Grading, Paving, Railroad Trackwork, Water and Sewer Lines; Schedule B-2, Electrical Distribution System; and Schedule B-3, Building Construction, including three Transit Sheds complete with Electrical, Plumbing and Sprinkler Systems and other appurtenances and Alterations to an Existing Warehouse. All facilities are to be located on the Georgia Ports Authority property at Savannah, Georgia. Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the Office of the General Manager, Georgia Ports Authority, Savannah, Georgia, in the Office of the Georgia Ports Authority, Atlanta, Georgia, in the Office of Robert and Company, Architects and Engineers, 96 Poplar St., N. W., Atlanta, Georgia, in the Office of the Atlanta Builders Exchange, Atlanta, Georgia, or they may be obtained by those qualified, and who will make a bid, upon application to Robert and Company, Architects and Engineers, 96 Poplar Street, N. W., Atlanta, Georgia, accompanied by a deposit of thirty-five dollars ($35.00) in cash or a certified check to guarantee return of plans and specifications. All documents furnished for bidding purposes remain the property of the Architects and Engineers. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided the plans and specifications are returned to the Engineers in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids. The deposit, less the actual cost of printing and mailing, will be refunded to those not submitting a bona fide proposal, provided the plans and specifications are returned to the Engineers in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids. Bidding Contractors will be furnished additional sets of plans and specifications upon application to the Engineers accompanied by the required deposit for each additional set requested. The amount of the total deposits for additional sets, less the actual cost of printing and mailing, will be refunded, provided the plans and specifications are returned to the Engineers in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a cash deposit, certified check or acceptable bid bond in an amount not less than 5% of the proposal, said deposit, check or bond to be retained by the Owner as liquidated damages in the event of failure of the successful bidder to execute contract and give satisfactory surety within ten (10) days after the award of the contract. A performance and payment bond will be required in an amount equal to 100% of the contract price. No bid may be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days after the receipt of bids.

Payments will be made on the basis of ninety (90%) percent of monthly estimates, and final payment made after completion and acceptance of the work.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Commissioners Ask Senate To Restore Farm Bill Cuts

The Southern Association of Agricultural Commissioners Monday approved a resolution asking the U. S. Senate to restore a House bill's cuts in Federal "matching funds" for agriculture and named a committee to present Congress with a "true statement of farm income" to show farmers are "discriminated against" in the present economy.

Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine of North Carolina, named president at Monday's session, introduced the resolution petitioning the Senate to amend the Research Marketing Administration bill to "disallow any cut in funds carried in the bill as it was introduced in the House."

Georgia does not participate in the matching funds set-up, said Georgia Commissioner Tom Linder, the retiring president. But nine of the 12 association states do.

The group discussed the possibility for setting up a regional farmers' market in Virginia to be modeled after the one in Atlanta and to serve farmers in the group area. A committee for the project will probably be named Tuesday before the association begins a tour of South Georgia, stopping at Covington, Macon, Perry and Cordele.

Linder framed the resolution asking for an accurate compilation of farm incomes.

"We assert the farmer is now receiving less income in proportion than other segments of the population, that support prices have actually resulted in depressing the market for farm products and actually the farmers are being discriminated against. The official facts and figures show this to be true," he said.

Atlantan Owes Life To Missing Plane

The Pastor of the Grant Park Baptist Church revealed Monday he owed his life to irregular African plane flights.

The Rev. E. B. Shivers, on the last leg of a month's tour of Baptist missions in Europe and Africa, was to have been a passenger on the Pan American Constellation which crashed Friday, killing 40 persons.

"The Lord just blocked" his keeping the appointment at Accra, originating point of the ill-fated flight, the Rev. Mr. Shivers said. He was unable to make a connecting flight from Kano in Nigeria.

Instead, he flew from Kano to London. He didn't learn the plane had crashed until he reached New York.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mr. Amos Turner who passed June 26, 1949, two years ago today.
There is an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go alone,
And there is a light we cannot see,
Our Father claims His own.
Beyond the gate our loved one finds,
Happiness and rest.
And there is comfort in the thought,
A loving God knows best.

AROUND GEORGIA

Constitution State News Service

Dr. J. Carswell Milligan, crusading Savannah preacher who reported to his congregation—after a Saturday night tour of sin dens—that vice was rampant, was charged in Police Commissioner Sanford P. Butler's denial, with "pulling the pulpit down to the level of low politics." . . . Also in Savannah, Stanley Andrews, director of foreign relations, United States Department of Agriculture, told members of the Georgia Farm Administration was and increasing world population makes it mandatory that this country produce more food and fiber than ever before. . . .Voters in Floyd County are expected to turn out in record numbers Tuesday to decide the issue of continued prohibition or legal sale of hard liquors.

Building Time

Its building time in Elberton, a program Tuesday featuring the breaking of ground for the construction of 105 dwelling units for low income families, the total contract for the building hitting the $788,050 mark. . . . Down at Adel, in deep south Georgia farmers halted their tobacco curing for the time being, picked their ripening watermelons, sold them at brisk prices, watched 45 carload lots roll away to northern markets. . . . Car loadings of melons also is underway at Cordele, the city that claims the title of "Watermelon Capitol of the South."

Blank Day

Henry Tidmore told officers at Rome things just went blank for him Thursday when his wife was fatally injured by a rifle bullet. The man surrendered to officers, after disappearing from his home in the Texas Valley community the day of the shooting. He had been sought since, met officers as, he said, he was on his way to jail to give up. . . . Mrs. Mamie Price, 54, went on trial for murder at Augusta Tuesday in the death of 7-year-old Lois Janes. An uncle and a local fisherman also are under indictment for murder in the case, which, the state contends involves an insurance policy on the child's life.

Country Club Open

WASHINGTON, June 25—The Washington Country Club is open again after being closed for almost a year. Mrs. Hobart Miller is at present in charge of the management and is serving dinners on Sundays and Wednesdays.

Police Blotter

By KEELER McCARTNEY

A 20-year-old Negro woman, her face swollen and bruised, told Dets. J. E. Helms and W. M. Holland:

"I came home from work and my husband asked me for a cigarette. I gave him one and he said: 'You know I don't smoke that brand.'

"Then he beat me up."

Detectives said the husband disappeared after the incident.

Second Vandal Visit

Vandals paid the second visit within two weeks to the offices of the H. and K. Plumbing Co., police said.

Dets. W. E. Petty and H. F. Brown said the intruders used an electric drill found inside the establishment to bore holes through wall partitions. Detectives added the vandals also discharged cap pistols and left the used ammunition lying about.

Robbery Case

J. D. Jenkins, 37-year-old steamfitter of 526 Washington St., S. W., Monday was placed under $2,000 bond to the Fulton County grand jury in connection with the knife robbery of a taxicab driver.

Clayton G. Betencourt, 64, of 644 North Highland Ave., N. E., a driver for the Veterans Cab Co. said he picked up Jenkins early Sunday at Washington St. and Memorial Dr., S. W. After driving a short distance, Betencourt said, Jenkins held a knife to his throat and robbed him.

Dets. Y. H. Allen and B. G. Holland said several other taxi drivers aided Betencourt in chasing down Jenkins after the robbery. They added Betencourt was treated at Grady Hospital for cuts on the arm and hip.

Charges Picket Attack

L. C. Wooten, of Marietta, Monday told police he was attacked with bricks when he attempted to cross a picket line at the Atlanta Metallic Casket Co., 216 Elliott St., N. W., where a labor dispute is in progress.

Wooten said he was attempting to enter the plant in search of work when a man stepped from the picket line and "wanted to know what I was doing there." He added he was struck with a brick when he refused to state his business.

Jackson Sing Meet

Constitution State News Service

BRASELTON, June 25—The 73rd annual session of the Jackson County Singing Convention will be held at Zion Baptist Church here July 21-22. Sam W. Lord is president of the convention and Jewett Barnett is secretary.

275 Enrolled For Soap Box Derby Race

Come 10 a. m. Saturday the largest number of amateur autobuilders since World War II will compete for the Atlanta Soap Box Derby Championship and a chance at the national title.

Sponsoring Chevrolet dealers and representatives of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., gathered Monday for a final planning session and dinner. Horace Powell, Atlanta Newspapers' vice president, told the gathering that 275 boys had enrolled for the 14th annual race to be run over the 987-foot track beginning on South Boulevard beyond Grant Park.

Final inspection of the cars will be made Thursday in two huge tents set up on the race site. Mechanics from the city's Chevrolet agencies will give the cars a professional going over as a safety precaution. When the vehicles line up Saturday they will be inside a protective wall put up the entire length of the raceway.

Spectators will find soft drink and sandwich concessions at hand and restrooms will have been erected.

Races will be run in two shifts. The first will begin at 10 a. m. and the second at 2 p. m. A parade of boys headed by a color guard representing all branches of the armed services and the Fort McPherson military band will march up the racing area to open the event.

Judges will be Chevrolet dealers from the area plus General H. G. Maddox of Fort McPherson with Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk of Atlanta as head of the group.

Two past Soap Box Derby champions were on hand Monday to plug the work of the organization. They were Joe Harrell, Jr., 1935 champ, and Tommy Howard, 1937 winner. They and other speakers were introduced by Roy Brown, Derby director.

Each contestant this year is sponsored by a business house which puts up $20 for the purchase of wheels, steering apparatus and a banner of identification.

Failure To File Tax Returns Is Admitted

George T. Burpee, 297 Cherokee Ave., of Athens pleaded guilty Monday to charges of failure to file federal income tax returns for 1947 and 1948 when his gross income was listed at $11,591.61 for the two years. Sentence was deferred until Friday.

Accidental Shot Kills Youth Here

A 15-year-old Smith High School student Monday was accidentally killed by a .22-caliber rifle in the hands of a playmate, police said.

Jimmy William Agnew, of 353 Woodward Ave., S. E., was pronounced dead at the home of a friend, 412 Woodward Ave., Det. M. W. Blackwell said. The small caliber bullet struck near the heart.

Robert Smith, 13, in whose bedroom the shooting occurred, told detectives he loaded the rifle several days ago when prowlers were heard in the neighborhood and forgot to unload it.

Agnew was visiting in the home and Harry Berry, 14, of 354 Woodward Ave., dropped by, Smith related. He said the Berry youth picked up the rifle and was examining the safety catch. The gun fired.

"Jimmy jumped up and yelled, 'I'm shot,'" he sobbed. "We thought he was kidding until he went into the next room and fell across the bed."

Blackwell said the three youths all attended Smith High School and were inseparable friends. He added the tragedy was written off as accidental.

Funeral services for Agnew will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the Grant Park Assembly of God Church. The Rev. Grover Langston will officiate. Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery, Clarkston.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Agnew, a brother, Jerry Lee Agnew; three sisters, Misses Alice, Doris and Margaret Agnew, all of Atlanta, and several aunts and uncles.

Apartment Firm Loses Rent Case

The Atlanta Area Rent Office Monday found Paces Ferry Apartments, Inc. guilty of nonwillful violation of rental ceilings and ordered the corporation to return $742 to four tenants.

The Corporation owns and operates the 21-unit apartment building at 325 Paces Ferry Rd.

Counsel for the landlord announced he would appeal the decision to the housing expediter in Washington, D. C. R. E. McKenney is manager of the apartments.

Tenants scheduled to share in the refund are: Miss Betty Powers, Olen Vernon, Mrs. Elsie Freeman and Miss Maniza Moore. McKenney, who was instrumental in purchasing the apartment for the Corporation in 1948, said it charges the same rent as the previous owner.

Reds' Civilian Defense Ahead, Says Caldwell

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—Russian civil defense is way ahead of America's, civil defense administrator Millard Caldwell said Monday night.

He estimated that Russia has from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 trained and organized civil defense workers.

For Safety's Sake

REFILL YOUR MEDICINE CHEST!

A well-stocked medicine chest is a "must" for safety in the home!

Too many medicine chests have inadequate supplies of essential first aid items . . . are cluttered with half-filled, or even empty bottles, jars, and tubes—with medicinals and prescriptions purchased so long ago that they have lost their full strength.

So take a tip from your neighborhood druggist. See to it that your medicine chest is properly stocked with a full supply of first aid needs and other essential items.

For, remember . . . most accidents occur in the home, and you never know when one will occur in your home! BE PREPARED :::

Clean it out . . . Stock it up . . .

Use this list to check your medicine chest.

Ask your druggist for this FREE first aid chart! ⬇

This important FIRST AID chart should be put on the inside of your medicine chest door.

It lists the accidents that might happen around the home . . . tells what first aid measures to take should they occur. It also gives important civilian defense information about what to do in case of a major catastrophe:

All persons are likely, at some time or other, to have the responsibility of aiding an injured person—perhaps your emergency case will be someone in your own family! The first place you'll turn at such a time is your medicine chest!

Be sure the chart is there for your use when you need it! Your druggist has one of these free FIRST AID charts for you. Ask for it . . . no obligation!

Your druggist plays a vital role in the health of your community. He has had special training and experience to guide and advise you on your medicine chest needs. He is the man who knows medicine chest items best. Turn to YOUR DRUGGIST when you refill your medicine chest.
